Million Chungking Inhabitants Listen To Roar Of Battle

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING (AP)—The Communists closed in on Chungking tonight amid the noise of battle. Cannon and machine-gun fire was audible in this Yangtze River city of 1,000,000.

Soldiers guarded the streets. Traffic which jammed thoroughfares Monday was absent today.

Only a few trucks were seen leaving the city. Some 600 others waited to cross the river at Neihang, half-way to Chengtu, 170 miles away. Chengtu will be the next and fourth capital of Nationalist China in a year.

Last Plane From Chungking Target Of Reds' Guns

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

HONGKONG (AP)—The last plane from Chungking tonight reported the Communists on the banks of the Yangtze River opposite the abandoned provisional capital.

Passengers said the plane was fired on by the Communists as it took off from an island airport in the Yangtze River.

So swift was their exit from the beleaguered city, passengers said, that they had to abandon their luggage in order to get away. One was hurt.

All indications were the city would be in the hands of the Reds before long.

Whether Chiang Kai-shek flew on to Chengtu, where the Nationalist government is reported to have sought refuge, was not known here. Chengtu is 170 miles northwest of Chungking. There was a remote possibility the Generalissimo might have been trapped in the doomed city by the swift-moving Communists. But he was known to have a plan ready for immediate departure.

The South China Morning Post published a story today saying Li Tsung-jen, acting president of Nationalist China, would leave shortly for the United States. Li, who is on the outs with Chiang, the "retired" president, has been in a Hongkong hospital with ulcers.

Cominform Chiefs Meet To Decide Plan Against Tito

MOSCOW (AP)—The leaders of the Cominform, spearhead of Russia's propaganda and economic war on Yugoslavia's Premier Tito, met secretly recently in Hungary, it was announced today.

A communique hinted that the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) leaders from eight countries discussed the tense relations with Yugoslavia.

London sources attached significance to the meeting, since, at the last such conference, in June, 1948, Russia and her satellites broke with Tito's regime and started a campaign aimed at unseating the Yugoslav Communist ruler.

The communique said one report, entitled "The Yugoslav Communist Party is in the Power of Murderers and Spies," was given by Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, secretary-general of the Romanian Workers' (Communist) Party.

Other reports were made by Mikhail A. Suslov, propaganda-chief of the U.S.S.R. Communist Party — "Defence of Peace and the Struggle Against the War-Mongers."

Palmiro Togliatti, secretary-general of the Italian Communist Party — "Unity of the Working Class and Tasks of Communists and Workers' Parties."

The resolutions and communique indicated the Cominform leaders discussed the whole range of world problems as well as Yugoslavia.

One resolution repeated the charge aired frequently by Soviet leaders that the western countries, headed by the United States and Britain, are seeking a new war.

The resolution noted "the historic victory of the Chinese people's revolution over the united forces of internal reaction and American imperialism and creation of a German Democratic people's government."

All this, the communique added, "provokes mad fury and rage among the imperialist war-mongers."

B.C. Slowly Becomes Normal After Storm

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The west coast, cut off from the rest of Canada since Saturday, crawled back to normal today after a storm which left a toll of at least 24 dead and millions of dollars in property damage.

The Canadian National Railways line through Kamloops was opened shortly after midnight and trains were traveling east and west loaded with a three-day backlog of passengers. Canadian Pacific trains were using the same C.N.R. line.

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway line to the north interior, which had been shut down by one of the worst storms ever to hit Canada's western provinces, was expected to be operating by tomorrow.

USE BULLDOZERS

Giant bulldozers ate their way through rock and mud mountain slides in the Hope area where the C.P.R. said it expected its traffic would be able to move through the storm-jammed Comiquilla Pass sometime today.

Highways were still blocked. But the hard-pressed Highways Department, its manpower bolstered by voluntary and part-time labor, said it expected to have a few roads cleared and in preparation by tomorrow.

Twenty persons died by drowning, and four were killed in storm-caused traffic accidents.

A joint Canadian Pacific-Trans Canada Air Lines airlift between Vancouver and Penticton and Kamloops, brought nearly 500 stranded C.N.R. and C.P.R. passengers to Vancouver Monday. They had been trapped at Kamloops and Penticton for a day and a half by mountainsides which made railway tracks impassable.

The 164-foot coastwise steamer Gulf Mariner, carrying 105 passengers and crew, ran aground Monday night near Squamish, while two pleasure boats, a scow, a fishing toiler and a tugboat were sunk in the storm.

Army Chiefs Of Atlantic Pact Countries Meet

PARIS (AP)—Chiefs of Staffs of the armies of 12 North Atlantic-treaty countries met here today and were reported to have reached agreement on unified defence against any future foe.

The military experts, a reliable source said, have now only to put "the technical experts to work" to complete North Atlantic defences.

Most of this work, he said, would be done here in the next two days, before Atlantic-Pact-country Defence Ministers meet Thursday to approve the plan.

The military chiefs' main task is to outline a main 3,000-mile defence barrier from the Norwegian Arctic to the Aegean Sea, past which no attacker from the east could march without a fight with the combined forces of all 12 pact members.

Canada's top representatives at the talks are Defence Minister Claxton and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the Canadian General Staff.

Alberni Tragedies Cast Gloom Over Fishing Fleet

PORT ALBERNI—The loss of five persons here Saturday when a taxi with driver and four passengers plunged off the Assembly Wharf into the harbor was a tragic sequel to the weekend re-union of the B.C. herring fleet and their families.

All the bodies have now been recovered by Archie McMillan, diver. Killed were:

Mrs. Jean Charleston, Mrs. Ralph Treilvick, Christian Ongstad and Eli Grande of Vancouver and Driver Tom Macdonald of Port Alberni.

Two fishermen—John Brentner and Oscar Steinberg, both of Prince Rupert, were killed when their car struck the cement side of the Nanossee Creek bridge.

Tragedy struck as weary members of the herring fleet, back in port from the fishing grounds, were greeting their families.

More than 60 fishermen's wives had gathered here for the last time until mid-December.

Weather Forecast

Cloudy with scattered showers today; southerly winds 15 m.p.h., decreasing to light tonight, Wednesday; Cloudy with intermittent rain in afternoon and evening; continuing mild. Southeast winds 25 during afternoon and evening. Low tonight, 42; high Wednesday, 50.

Winnipeg Constables Beaten Up By Thugs

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Police have captured three men who robbed and beat up two cruiser car policemen in Winnipeg early this morning.

The arrest followed a concentrated search in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards and in Transcona.

The two constables were reported to have been beaten and robbed of their revolvers. It was not known exactly how the three thugs held up the police officers.

Panama's New Chief

Dr. Arnulfo Arias (above) became Panama's third President in six days following a formal proclamation by Col. Jose Remon, commander of the country's potent National Police Force. Remon declared Arias had been elected by popular vote—an apparent reference to the disputed 1948 election in which Arias claims to have been cheated of victory. — (NEA Photo)

Blackshirt Group Found In Vienna

VIENNA (Reuter)—An alleged "neo-Nazi" group, whose members wore full S.S. blackshirt uniforms during their meetings in a mountainside shack, has been discovered by police, the Austrian press agency said today. Six members of the group—all former Hitler Youth leaders—were arrested.

Two Patients First To Be Given New Drug Neomycin

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Doctors at the Pennsylvania Hospital reported today that one of science's newest "wonder" drugs—neomycin—has been given to human beings for the first time. Two male patients suffering from urinary-tract infections were administered the drug, the hospital said, with complete cures affected after six days. Neomycin is a drug-brother of a streptomycin. They are made from the same material—a soil fungus.

Treatment of the two patients was supervised by Dr. Garfield G. Duncan, director of the division of medicine at the Pennsylvania Hospital.

The patients, both near death, agreed to risk possible after-effects on the chance the drug might work.

The drug was developed by Dr. Selman Waksman, Ukrainian-born microbiologist who previously discovered streptomycin in experiments at Rutgers University.

"Combined with streptomycin," Dr. Duncan said, "neomycin may help in the treatment of tuberculosis."

"If it does aid in even partially eliminating TB, neomycin will be one of the greatest discoveries of medical science."

WIDE FIELD

Mr. Duncan said: "Neomycin will be used in a very wide range of disorders, but I wouldn't be able to tell in advance what it might cure or not."

"We will use it only in cases in which streptomycin or other known anti-biotic drugs prove ineffective."

"That's the only excuse to use it until we know more about neomycin."

Eight pharmaceutical firms are manufacturing neomycin, but only in minute quantities because its final effect on human beings is still not known.

Chicago Editor Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Fred W. Proctor, long-time golf editor of the Chicago Herald-American, died Monday at the age of 74 after a prolonged illness.

Plane Plows Into Chemical Factory; 17 Survivors Hurt

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—At least 28 persons of 45 aboard an American Airlines plane which crashed early today are believed dead. Seventeen persons were taken to hospital.

The big DC-6, en route to Mexico City from New York and Washington, plowed into a chemical plant at the edge of Love Airfield and burned before dawn. The persons taken to hospital appeared to be the only survivors.

The plane struck as it approached for a landing. A crew member who staggered, dazed and bleeding, to a nearby house, said one of the engines was afire and he had stopped the other three.

Nearly two hours after the crash firemen were still pulling charred and rigid bodies from the twisted wreckage.

Three of the five crew members are among the survivors, American Airlines said. There were 40 passengers aboard.

(In New York, American Airlines said there were 41 passengers aboard. The 41st was believed to be a baby.)

(The Home Office said 45 persons had been accounted for. The line said 27 bodies had been recovered, one died in a hospital, four were in a hospital, 10 had been released from hospitals after treatment and there were three other survivors.)

A blue-uniformed representative of the lines stood by the plane, weeping as he kept count of the bodies brought out.

It was about 5:45 a.m., C.S.T., when the big plane struck the Magniflux plant on the northwest edge of the field. The plant inspects plane engines by chemical means.

The plane left New York Monday night, American Airlines said. It left Washington—its last stop—after midnight.

Fire Broke Out At Once

The huge plane was coming in for a landing when it crashed on the northwest edge of the field. It immediately burst into flames. Love Field, Dallas' chief airport, is about seven miles northwest from the heart of the city.

One propeller was feathered, American Airlines said, indicating something was wrong with one of the four engines. But the plane was approaching the field in a routine manner before the crash, the airlines said.

An hour and a half after the crash, the scene was still one of "organized chaos," officers said. Regular traffic seemed to be continuing at the field.

Col. Harold Byrd, chief of the Texas Civil Air Patrol right at the scene, said "This is terrible. Just terrible. There is no other word."

King's Messenger On Crashed Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — The British Embassy today identified a British courier aboard the plane which crashed at Dallas as Lt. Col. A. F. S. Fane, a King's Messenger.

Fane was en route to Mexico City and Guatemala on an official mission.

The Embassy said Fane, about 56, had served in the First and Second World Wars, retiring after the last war. He became a King's courier about four years ago. Couriers are on the staff of the Foreign Office and they are based in London. Their missions carry them all over the world.

Saanich Accident Victims Recovering

Jubilee Hospital officials reported this morning that James L. Dignan, 22, Verdier Avenue, and Arthur Jones, Seamen's Institute, both badly injured in a Saanich accident Nov. 18, are showing improvement. Jones came out of his coma during that week-end, but Dignan lay in his hospital bed unconscious for over a week.

Several Deaths Feared In Crash At Grenoble, France

LYON, France (AP)—A Tunis-Paris airliner with 30 persons aboard crashed near Saint-Just-Chaleyssin today.

The accident occurred at 4:45 p.m. (7:45 a.m., P.S.T.). The little town of 500 inhabitants is located about 15 miles southeast of Lyon.

The Agence France-Presse said "there seem to be several deaths."

At Least 35 Die In Two Air Crashes

Mercury Drop May Stop New Flood Damage

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 50-mile-an-hour gale blowing in from mid-Pacific today worried flood-weary British Columbia, but weathermen said sliding temperatures probably would prevent the disastrous mountain run-offs that caused week-end holocaust and claimed 19 lives.

The gale, moving into the Gulf of Alaska from 900 miles west of the Queen Charlotte Islands, is expected to reach there within 12 hours.

Although flood danger seemed to be over rain-softened road beds were still a potential menace. Shifting rails toppled the engine and mail car of Canadian Pacific's No. 12 transcontinental train off the track at Penticton, B.C., about 400 miles east of here. No one was injured.

M.P.'s Kill Plan To Boost Federal Highway Payments

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today voted 152 to 46 to uphold a Speaker's ruling which blocked a C.C.F. amendment designed to increase the federal government's share of the cost of the Trans-Canada Highway from 50 to 75 per cent.

Deputy Speaker J. A. Dion ruled the amendment increased the responsibility of the federal government. Since that responsibility was financial, the amendment was out of order.

Under parliamentary rules only the government may initiate a measure involving increased expenditure of money.

Hazen Argue (C.C.F. Assiniboia) moved the amendment during clause-by-clause discussion of the bill to construct a Trans-Canada highway.

It didn't involve increased expenditure, he said, because the ceiling on federal outlay was $150,000,000 and this would not change it.

EASIER TO GET

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre) said the effect of the amendment would be to make it easier for provinces to get the federal money.

Under the bill as it stood the provinces would have to put up $3 for every $3 they received from the federal government to build the highway. The amendment would mean the provinces had to put up only $1 to get $3.

Commission Buys Tofino, Ucluelet Electrical Plants

Purchase of the former military power and distribution services at Tofino and Ucluelet on the west coast of Vancouver Island by the B.C. Power Commission was announced today.

The purchase of this equipment, however, does not necessarily mean the commission will provide power services for the two areas. The two areas at the present time have no general production or distribution services.

The equipment, acquired by the commission from the War Assets Corporation, includes two diesel electric generating plants and distribution systems of the army and air force at Tofino and the diesel plant, distribution and street-lighting equipment of the military establishment at Ucluelet. The purchase price was about $35,000.

While the acquisition of the west coast plants clears the way for a possible extension of services in the two areas, the commission made no commitment on its possible policy in this respect. It announced, however, that a survey would be made to determine the best utilization of the plants and of the power needs of the districts.

Atlantic Pact Countries' Army Staff Chiefs Meet

PARIS (AP)—Chiefs of Staffs of the armies of 12 North Atlantic-treaty countries met here today and were reported to have reached agreement on unified defence against any future foe.

The military experts, a reliable source said, have now only to put "the technical experts to work" to complete North Atlantic defences.

Most of this work, he said, would be done here in the next two days, before Atlantic-Pact

Permit Issued For New Radio Station

Permit was issued by the city building department today for rebuilding the lower ground floor of the Douglas Hotel for Victoria's new radio station, CKDA.

V. L. Leigh was issued the permit, which estimated cost of altering the hotel premises for studios, offices and control rooms at $6,000.

Work is being started immediately and the owner of the new station, David M. Armstrong, expects CKDA to go on the air at the first of the year.

Architects for the station are Birley, Wade & Stockhill.

Saanich Accident Victims Recovering

Jubilee Hospital officials reported this morning that James L. Dignan, 22, Verdier Avenue, and Arthur Jones, Seamen's Institute, both badly injured in a Saanich accident Nov. 18, are showing improvement. Jones came out of his coma during that week-end, but Dignan lay in his hospital bed unconscious for over a week.

Must Have Children

TORONTO (CP)—An apartment building "for couples with children only" is being planned in suburban York township. The township council heard an application Monday night from a builder who wishes to purchase a site for a $750,000 100-suite building in which suites will be rented only to couples with children.

34 Rebels Dead In Savage Fight In Philippines

MANILA, P.I. (BUP)—Thirty-four rebels were reported today to have been killed when the Philippine Constabulary captured five rebel positions during "savage fight" in Batangas province.

The rebels were reported to have been trapped in the Apar Mountain area near Lobo, where guerrillas hid out during the Pacific war.

Brig. Gen. Alberto Ramos, who visited the front Monday and then returned to Manila, said his troops were closing in fast on rebel positions and that it "probably will be all over by Monday."

Ramos has thrown more than 1,000 men into the operation, including some who were landed on the south coast of Lobo to cut off a possible sea escape by the rebels.

A sea blockade also is being maintained.

The rebels, who call themselves the "Philippine Revolutionary Forces," are believed to be nationalists whose candidate, Jose Laurel, was defeated in the recent presidential election won by Elpidio Quirino.

Blackshirt Group Found In Vienna

VIENNA (Reuter)—An alleged "neo-Nazi" group, whose members wore full S.S. blackshirt uniform during their meetings in a mountainside shack, has been discovered, by police, the Austrian press agency said today. Six members of the group—all former Hitler Youth leaders—were arrested.

Quake's Epicentre 100 Miles From City

Tremor of an earthquake with an epicentre probably within 100 miles of Victoria was recorded at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory shortly after 5 this morning.

Dr. K. O. Wright at the observatory said the shock began at 5:03.05 and lasted about two minutes, indicating it was of local origin.

It had not been quite strong enough to show all the details too well on the seismograph record, Dr. Wright said.

No damage was reported here, or in the Bremerton or Seattle areas where the tremor also was felt and was reported to have awakened many residents and rattled dishes.

The University of Washington seismograph recorded the tremor from 5:03 until 5:07, centred at a distance of about 30 miles.

Prof. G. E. Woodspeed, head of the university geology department, classified it as weak.

Culbable Neglect In Sailor's Death

A coroner's jury this morning ruled the death in downtown Victoria last Friday of AB. Clarence A. Clarke, aged 19, resulted from culpable neglect on the part of another naval rating, AB. Donald Peddon.

Peddon, crew member of H.M.C.S. Crescent, is alleged to be the driver of a naval jeep which struck and critically injured Clarke on Douglas Street, near Broughton, shortly before 2 in the morning.

For complete story of inquest see Page 15.

Bites From $1,000,000 Worth

Miss Bernice Zaluski, of Scott and Peden Ltd., this morning became the first girl in Victoria to bite into a part of the $1,000,000 shipment of Japanese oranges to Canada. (See story, page 15.)

Million In Chungking Hear Battle Approach

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING (AP)—The Communists closed in on Chungking tonight amid the noise of battle. Cannon and machine-gun fire was audible in this Yangtze River city of 1,000,000.

Soldiers guarded the streets. Traffic which jammed thoroughfares Monday was absent today.

Only a few trucks were seen leaving the city. Some 600 others waited to cross the river at Neihang, halfway to Chengtu, 170 miles away. Chengtu will be the next and fourth capital of Nationalist China in a year.

Some French Roman Catholic missionaries left this morning on what was probably the last trip out of Chungking aboard the Lutheran mission plane, St. Paul.

The rumble of gunfire was heard south of the city and across the Yangtze this afternoon. There was a rumor in town the Reds would by-pass Chungking immediately and enter it later in the week.

Another report said there were still two divisions of Nationalist troops to be withdrawn tonight. After that is done, the report said the Communists would be invited by telephone to move into the city.

A peaceful turnover is expected.

About 20 American and many British missionaries remain in and near Chungking. All seemed calm late today.

All news correspondents are to leave for Chengtu by plane tonight.

New Tests Of Atomic Blasts At Eniwetok

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States plans to make a new series of atomic weapons tests at Eniwetok in the Pacific.

This was made known tonight in a joint announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defence Department. The announcement gave no indication when the tests will be held.

The tests are to determine the efficiency of improved weapons developed since the last experiments at the Eniwetok proving grounds in the spring of 1948.

LATEST

Lewis Must Decide

NEW YORK (BUP)—John L. Lewis meets with his top United Mineworkers' officers today to decide whether the U.S. must face a new soft coal strike tomorrow night. The decision, however, may not come before tomorrow.

Lost Tugs Found

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Two tugs with seven men aboard were found today near Pointe Au Baril, on Georgian Bay 70 miles north of here, after being reported missing since Sunday. Police, who launched an aerial search, learned that the tugs had sought shelter from a storm in the lee of an island near here.

May Delay M.P.'s

OTTAWA (BUP)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent warned today that Parliament will continue sitting till Christmas if necessary. He made this warning when Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre) rose to discuss a procedural issue for the second time this morning.

East Indian Guilty

Kishen Singh, East Indian, was this afternoon found guilty by an Assize Court jury on charges of possession of morphine and of cultivating opium poppies at his Head Street residence. (See "Says East Indian," page 15.)

Nominations Close At Noon Thursday

Nomination hours in Saanich and Oak Bay will be from 10 Thursday morning to 12 noon, and from 12 to 2 in the afternoon, as previously announced, officials of the two municipalities reported today. No nominations will be accepted after 12. This also applies to Esquimalt, which previously announced the change.

Bring Total For November To Over 200

From A.P. and U.P. Dispatches

The month's death toll in major civilian and military air crashes rose to well over 200 today with new crashes at Dallas, Tex., and near Lyons, France.

November thus became one of aviation's worst months in peacetime history.

At least 28 died in the Dallas disaster and at least seven (one report said 37) in the crash southeast of Lyons.

Forty-six persons were aboard the American Airlines plane that plowed into buildings on the border of Love Field, outside Dallas, early today and burst into flames.

Fourteen were in hospitals and one was missing. Three others left hospital after treatment. The big DC-6 was en route to Mexico City from New York and Washington.

It struck a hangar and plowed broadside into a chemical plant after swooping over the field in an attempt to land. A crew member, who staggered dazed and bleeding to a nearby house, said one of the engines was afire and he had stopped the other three.

Three of the crew members and 14 passengers survived.

Identification of the dead was difficult because the bodies were badly burned. Survivors not badly injured scattered to hotels, adding to the task of rescue workers in determining casualties.

Li-Col. A. F. S. Fane, a British Foreign Office courier, was among those presumed dead. The British Embassy said he was en route to Mexico City and Guatemala on an official mission.

A Justice of the Peace, Pierce McBride, said he had viewed 28 bodies—those of 17 men and 11 women.

Nearly two hours after the crash, firemen were still pulling charred and rigid bodies from the twisted wreckage.

Three of the five crew members are among the survivors, American Airlines said. A blue-uniformed representative of the lines stood by the plane, weeping as he kept count of the bodies brought out.

It was about 5:45 a.m., C.S.T., when the big plane struck the Magniflux plant on the northwest edge of the field. The plant inspects plane engines by chemical means.

The plane left New York Monday night, American Airlines said. It left Washington—its last stop—after midnight.

Survivor Saw Seven Bodies

At Lyon, France, it was estimated 10 persons were killed today when an Air France DC-4 passenger plane carrying 37 passengers and crewmen crashed in the Alpine foothills while jockeying for a landing at the mist-cloaked Lyon airport.

Paul Jacot, a passenger who survived the crash, said he saw seven bodies dragged from the wreckage, and he believed the dead numbered about 10. Police had estimated earlier 10 were killed.

(At Paris, Reuters quoted an official of Orly airport saying all aboard the plane had been killed.)

The big four-engined transport burst into flames after it crashed.

Winnipeg Constables Beaten Up By Thugs

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Police have captured three men who robbed and beat up two cruiser car policemen in Winnipeg early this morning.

The arrest followed a concentrated search in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards and in Transcona.

The two constables were reported to have been beaten and robbed of their revolvers. It was not known exactly how the three thugs held up the police officers.

Report Wanted Man Seen In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Vancouver city police today were still investigating reports that a man wanted for attempted bank robbery and murder two years ago was seen in Vancouver's Skidrow recently.

Police said it was possible that Walter Pavlukoff, sought following the attempted hold-up of the Bank of Commerce branch at McKenzie and Broadway in August, 1947, and the shooting of manager Sidney Petrie, was in the city.

They were commenting on reports that logger Peter Osau, who once offered Pavlukoff a job, said he had seen the wanted man, down and out and panhandling on Cordova Street two or three times this week.

Aged Man, Wife Battered To Death In Oshawa Home

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—The battered bodies of an elderly couple were found today in a pool of blood in their ransacked home on Park Avenue in southeastern Oshawa. They were identified as those of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Katernyk, formerly of Cahora, Sask.

The slayings were discovered by neighbors who broke into the house after becoming alarmed because the couple had not been seen since Saturday.

Chief of Police Owen Friend said the first person to enter the house was Mike Shody, who lives around the corner from the couple's home. Shody reported finding the house in a state of confusion, with the couple's clothing and personal belongings scattered around the rooms.

It could not be established immediately whether anything of value was stolen.

FARMED ON PRAIRIES

Police said Katernyk, more than 80 years old, came to Oshawa several years ago after retiring from farming in Saskatchewan. He was of Ukrainian descent. His wife was believed more than 70 years of age.

The couple, apparently fairly well-to-do, lived in a comfortable home at 250 Park Avenue. Katernyk recently had an oil-burning furnace installed in the house so he would not have to shovel coal.

The Katernyks were said to have many friends in the neighborhood, settled mainly by citizens of Ukrainian origin.

TARTAN MAGIC

MY RECENT COLUMN on "Turban and Kilt" inspired an anonymous reader to send me a marked copy of Chambers' Journal of August last. The marked article is entitled "Tartan Magic: The Spell of the Highland Costume."

Doubtless it was sent in the hope that it would instill into my Sassenach soul a proper respect for the kilt—and all those other traditionally Scottish things at which I take sly digs from time to time.

So I gladly confess that, after reading it, I am properly impressed by the long and colorful history of the tartan, whose origin seems to be shrouded in antiquity, going back to ancient Gaul, about 400 B.C.

SQUARES AND STRIPES

ACCORDING TO VIRGIL and Livy, says the author of the article, Neil Matheson, "the Celts used different colors in the warp and woof to bring out a pattern of squares and stripes, and delighted in clothes in which they blended such colors as an honest-minded person has no cause to blame or the world reason to cry out upon."

However, during the troublous times of the Jacobite rising, someone evidently found "reason to cry out upon" the tartan, for its wearing was banned in 1746. And it wasn't until 1782 that the ban was lifted.

With the tartan restored to favor, we are told, tartan gowns and plaids became the rage, and the craze extended even to such things as window-curtains and furniture coverings. "Indeed, so embarrassing became the mania that in self-defence the Whigs were forced to dress the common hangman in tartan, a ruse that acted as an effective counter to the exaggerated fervor of the Jacobites," according to Matheson.

QUESTIONABLE LINEAGE

I WAS AMUSED to learn, from the same authority, that quite a number of tartans of questionable lineage owe their emergence to a passing whim on the part of an English king, George the Fourth.

It seems that the king, when on a visit to Scotland, sought to ingratiate himself by requesting the Scottish gentlemen who attended his levees to appear in Highland dress. At that time, the Highland chiefs could lay claim to certain tartans, but the others couldn't. However, they soon remedied that until most of the gentlemen in Scotland were able to boast of a tartan of their own.

Incidentally, I was intrigued to read that the Irish claim to have introduced the kilt into Scotland. The earliest Irish records refer to "rank" tartans. Thus servants were permitted to wear them of one color only; rent-paying farmers, two; officers, three; and so on according to the grade in society held by the wearer.

TARTAN BOOM

THE ARTICLE briefly refers to the current boom in tartans, to which I also alluded in the column in question. Orders have poured into Scotland for women's wear as well as men's, to such an extent as to suggest that Scottish sentiment is still strong the world over.

After reading that article in Chambers', I was amused by a news item in an English paper which recorded the latest idea in dinner jackets—of Fraser tartan. A New Yorker ordered such a garment from the Scotch House store in Knightsbridge, London—and the resultant tuxedo is pictured in all its glory of scarlet, royal blue, bottle green, black and white, with black silk facings. The only thing missing was a pibroch and a haggis!

After seeing that particular adaptation of the tartan, I wondered if we might be in for a similar reaction as happened in 1782—with some Sassenach, in self defence, wanting the Lord High Executioner dolled up in a "plaidie."

Amateur Operators Prepared To Assist In Any Emergency

Amateur radio operators in Victoria will hold an emergency, or disaster, practice under the Victoria Short Wave Club in co-operation with the Victoria Red Cross Society Dec. 11.

Amateur radio equipped cars will patrol the city or be located in strategic positions around town and will keep in touch with headquarters station and with other designated "fixed" stations in the amateur's home. Contacts by radio telephony and code wireless will be kept with up-island and mainland stations in British Columbia and adjoining states.

Amateur radio is always prepared to assist in any emergency when power lines are down and other means of communication cut off by high winds, floods or other catastrophes which may occur. During the storm which swept British Columbia and other points in the Northwest last Sunday, amateur radio operators were on the alert with equipment ready to fill in any breach in communications upon request and this vigilance was kept constant throughout the day.

IN CONSTANT TOUCH

Stations in Victoria, Alberni, Vancouver, Woodville, Summerland, Penticton and many other locations in British Columbia as well as stations in Washington and Oregon were in constant touch with each other.

Many amateur radio stations in Victoria are equipped with battery-operated equipment ready to go "on the air" at a minutes' notice in the case of local power failure. Amateur radio basically is a hobby but in the case of an emergency it becomes an efficient business and all time given by the amateurs is absolutely free.

OPEN FOR MEMBERS

The Victoria Short Wave Club is open to receive new members and anyone with a "ticket" or anyone interested in radio is welcome to apply for membership. Meetings are held at 2500 Foul Bay Road the first and fourth Mondays in the month. Arrangements are being made for a series of talks on the various phases of radio transmitters and receivers, the operation of an amateur radio station and other educational matters will be discussed in addition to technical movies and social events throughout the year.

10 Must Pay Road, Poll Tax And Costs

Ten citizens of Esquimalt pleaded guilty in Esquimalt Police Court this afternoon to charges of failing to pay the annual road and poll tax.

Each was assessed the $7 levy in addition to $3 costs. One woman was assessed a $2 levy for road tax and also $3 costs.

Mayor Answers Kent's Charges Of No Leadership, Initiative

First clash in the mayoralty campaign was seen Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce which sponsored a luncheon to hear candidates in the Dec. 8 civic elections.

Mayor Percy George answered charges levelled against him by Ald. Aubrey Kent at a Geyro Club luncheon a week ago as well as at the chamber luncheon.

"Don't be taken in by all this poppycock," the mayor advised. He was referring to his opponent's criticism of the civic administration.

Ald. Kent had stated that the City Council lacked leadership and initiative, also that in the words of the Stevenson and Kellogg Report for appointment of a city administrator, Victoria had a "strong council, weak mayor" form of government.

Ald. Kent used the "strong council, weak mayor" quotation after charging that Mayor George had not shown the leadership he might have.

He did not consider himself a "paragon of business virtue" but he felt that he could do much for Victoria with "a certain amount of advanced planning I have in mind" and some organization at the City Hall which was lacking in the past.

PUT THINGS RIGHT

Mayor George said he wanted to put things right as far as the "strong council, weak mayor" statement was concerned.

It was true, "This was the form of government all cities operating under the Municipal Act had. It was the 'form' of government and not the 'individual' the words of the report referred to, the mayor made clear.

The mayor did not have one-quarter the power of the remainder of the City Council, he added.

'NEWS TO ME'

"It's news to me," Mayor George continued, "if I've fallen down on leadership."

He described the tremendous growth of Victoria since V-J Day and reminded his listeners that he had been mayor the past five years when the expanded population demanded and received needed services.

It might be difficult for persons outside the City Council to see the great strides that had been made, and "you wouldn't recognize the changes in internal operations of the city either," the mayor said.

He said that 50 per cent of the letters and delegations he received daily were from outside the city which showed that amalgamation must come for the well-being of the people.

Many of the aldermen did not recognize these things, though. There was too much petty wrangling among the aldermen. This had not made the mayor's position any easier.

MANAGER NOW

Ald. Kent said the city could have had a city manager now if there had not been so much "quibbling" in the City Council. As an example of the "putting off" tactics of the present administration, he continued, the city had not had an assessor for three years. The position, one of the most important in this department brought in more revenue than any other, was being filled with an assistant.

At the beginning of the year the civic service committee of council had made recommendations in this regard but had been blocked on at least three occasions by the finance committee of which the mayor was a member.

"It's another case of putting off," said Ald. Kent. "I contend the mayor and certain members of the council definitely are showing no initiative."

The mayor had not presented any concrete five or 10-year plan to better the city's position. All that had been done was from year to year. But future planning was necessary, Ald. Kent said.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ward A. Hillerich, 44, president of Hillerich and Bradsby Company, manufacturers of Louisville Slugger baseball bats and other sporting equipment, died in a hospital Sunday. He had been ill since last January.

Ship Converted Here Had Close Call On Voyage To Arctic

The voyage late last summer of the converted landing craft Yellowknife Expeditor from Victoria through the Arctic and up the Mackenzie River to Great Slave Lake nearly came to a sudden end five days after the 160-foot ship left this city.

Details of how the vessel groped through the Alaskan Gulf mist trying to find the reef-infested entrance to Kodiak Harbor and had a "close call" were told to members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel today by Jim McKeachie, Daily Times reporter, who made the 5,500-mile journey.

"At the suggestion of the Coast Guard, who were 'talking us in' by radio, we dropped the anchor after unsuccessfully trying to pick up a lighthouse shown on our charts. At dawn, we saw we were less than a quarter of a mile from a reef over which huge waves were breaking. From then on, the Coast Guard men were our special friends. The lighthouse, by the way, had been taken out two years before we found out later on," the speaker said.

Bookmakers Taken For Thousands On Baseball Awards

NEW YORK (AP)—New York bookmakers, hit for an estimated $500,000 loss in a recent betting coup involving the most valuable player competition in baseball, haven't paid off yet. And what's more, many of them don't intend to.

That there was considerable money being wagered on the outcome of the most valuable player polls came to light on Nov. 12, shortly before Jackie Robinson was announced as National League winner. The National League choice was made public Nov. 18 and the American League winner—Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox—exactly a week later.

Some persons knew Williams had won in the American League at least 10 days before the official announcement. The Associated Press sports department was besieged by phone callers wanting to verify his victory.

$40,000 TOUCH

One Manhattan bookie is said to have been taken for $40,000. It is reported a small Brooklyn bookie dropped six grand.

A fight manager who allegedly books on the side, hired a well-known man-about-town to determine the exact date when the votes were counted.

The manager did not disclose how much money he lost but he was willing to pay his man off with a "brand new Cadillac" if he could "get him out of the mess."

Ken Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, which conducts the poll, said the votes were tabulated Nov. 11 and the results were handed to the printer that same day. The actual voting takes place before the end of the season.

Trip to Wales—Mrs. W. R. Williams was guest speaker at the meeting of Jane Percy Auxiliary, Fairfield United Church, and gave a vivid account of her recent trip to England and Wales, stressing the fact that food parcels are very much needed to supplement a monotonous diet. Mrs. L. Wright was named to take charge of the baby band, assisted by Miss K. Wright; Mrs. M. McIvor took the devotional and Miss Stewart's circle was in charge of the program. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ranson. Next meeting will be in the church hall on Dec. 12, when mite boxes will be collected. Mrs. B. Varcoe's circle will be in charge.

Doukhobors Guilty Of Factory Burning

NELSON (CP)—Three Doukhobors, members of the radical Sons of Freedom wing, were found guilty of arson Monday in the 1943 burning of a Brilliant, B.C., jam factory.

The jury deliberated four minutes in finding guilty Pete Swetishoff, William G. Konkin and Anton Kolenikoff. The trio will be sentenced later in the assizes.

The men said they burned the $300,000 factory in the belief they were following the wish of their leader, Michael (the Archangel) Verigin. Admissions, made voluntarily to police, and corroborated on the witness stand, said they were told by Verigin that he would not come to them until there is "a fire pole from earth to heaven."

New Chairman Named

CHICAGO (AP)—Michael Straight, 33, of New York, editor of the New Republic, will serve the next year as national chairman of the American Veterans' Committee. Straight defeated Jack D. Gordon of Miami, Fla., in the election here. The new chairman was backed by the convention's right-wing group.

B.C. Slowly Becomes Normal After Storm

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The west coast, cut off from the rest of Canada since Saturday, crawled back to normal today after a storm which left a toll of at least 24 dead and millions of dollars in property damage.

The Canadian National Railways line through Kamloops was opened shortly after midnight and trains were traveling east and west loaded with a three-day backlog of passengers. Canadian Pacific trains were using the same C.N.R. line.

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway line to the north interior, which had been shut down by one of the worst storms ever to hit Canada's western provinces, was expected to be operating by tomorrow.

USE BULLDOZERS

Giant bulldozers ate their way through rock and mud mountain-slides in the Hope area where the C.P.R. said it expected its traffic would be able to move through the storm-jammed Coquihalla Pass sometime today.

Highways were still blocked. But the hard-pressed Highways Department, its manpower bolstered by voluntary and part-time labor, said it expected to have a few roads cleared and in preparation by tomorrow.

Twenty persons died by drowning and four were killed in storm-caused traffic accidents.

A joint Canadian Pacific-Trans-Canada Air Lines airlift between Vancouver and Penticton and Kamloops, brought nearly 500 stranded C.N.R. and C.P.R. passengers to Vancouver Monday. They had been trapped at Kamloops and Penticton for a day and a half by mountain slides which made railway tracks impassable.

Five Deaths In Shootings At Farm Home In Alberta

SPIRIT RIVER, Alta. (CP) —

The death toll in a bizarre family shooting here Monday reached five with the death in hospital of Mrs. Walter Grubisitch, about 38.

Police said her husband, termed a "model husband," turned a shotgun on his wife and their three children before taking his own life.

The slain children were Mary, 13; Walter, 6, and George, 5. All were found lying within a 10-foot radius of their father, propped up dead against a chair in the farm kitchen with a gun across his lap.

The only surviving member of the family is Charles, 14, who had been sent away by his father on a trumped-up errand prior to the shootings.

Charles and a neighbor, Mrs. Peter Stanich, and her son,

Andrew, found the bodies of the father and three children in the farm house about 265 miles northwest of Edmonton.

They came upon Mrs. Grubisitch lying mortally wounded on the floor of a nearby barn. She died Monday night from a head wound.

Rev. Father Paquin of Rycroft, eight miles away, said he had known the Grubisitch family well and considered the farmer a model husband.

"He never fought with his family and I never heard of any domestic quarrels from the couple," he said.

Lately, however, the farmer had complained about a chronic stomach ailment, the priest said. He was to have had an appointment with a doctor Sunday, but could not make it because of bad roads.

Charles said he was aroused early Monday by his father, who complained about a stomach trouble. Grubisitch asked his son to call the neighbors so he could be taken to a hospital.

Dr. J. Law, district coroner, said the children and their father died instantly from shotgun wounds.

Cominform Chiefs Meet To Decide Plan Against Tito

MOSCOW (AP) — The leaders of the Cominform, spearhead of Russia's propaganda and economic war on Yugoslavia's Premier Tito, met secretly recently in Hungary, it was announced today.

A communique hinted that the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) leaders from eight countries discussed the tense relations with Yugoslavia.

(London sources attached significance to the meeting, since, at the last such conference, in June, 1948, Russia and her satellites broke with Tito's regime and started a campaign aimed at unseating the Yugoslav's Communist ruler.)

The communique said one report, entitled "the Yugoslav Communist Party is in the Power of Murderers and Spies," was given by Gheorghe Gheorgiu-Dej, secretary-general of the Romanian Workers' (Communist) Party.

Other reports were made by: Mikhail A. Suslov, propaganda chief of the U.S.S.R. Communist Party; "Defence of Peace and the Struggle Against the War-Mongers."

Palmiro Togliatti, secretary-general of the Italian Communist Party; "Unity of the Working Class and Tasks of Communists and Workers' Parties."

Give Views On World Problems

The resolutions and communique indicated the Cominform leaders discussed the whole range of world problems as well as Yugoslavia.

One resolution repeated the charge aired frequently by Soviet leaders that the western countries, headed by the United States and Britain, are seeking a new war.

The resolution noted "the historic victory of the Chinese people's revolution over the united forces of internal reaction and American imperialism and creation of a German Democratic people's government."

All this, the communique added, "provokes mad fury and rage among the imperialist war-mongers."

"Anglo-American imperialists," the communique added, "count upon changing the march of historical development by means of a war to solve their internal and external contradictions and difficulties to consolidate positions of monopoly capital and to conquer."

The Cominform was organized in September, 1947, as a coordinating agency of the various Communist parties. Its announced purpose was to centralize propaganda, but it has evolved as an agency for directing policy among Russia's satellites.

Two Patients First To Be Given New Drug Neomycin

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doctors at the Pennsylvania Hospital reported today that one of science's newest "wonder" drugs — neomycin — has been given to human beings for the first time.

Two male patients suffering from urinary-tract infections were administered the drug, the hospital said, with complete cures effected after six days.

Neomycin is a drug-brother of a streptomycin. They are made from the same material — a soil fungus.

Treatment of the two patients was supervised by Dr. Garfield G. Duncan, director of the division of medicine at the Pennsylvania Hospital.

The patients, both near death, agreed to risk possible after-effects on the chance the drug might work.

The drug was developed by Dr. Selman Waksman, Ukrainian-born microbiologist who previously discovered streptomycin in experiments at Rutgers University.

"Combined with streptomycin," Dr. Duncan said, "neomycin may help in the treatment of tuberculosis."

"If it does aid in even partially eliminating TB, neomycin will be one of the greatest discoveries of medical science."

WIDE FIELD
Mr. Duncan said: "Neomycin will be used in a very wide range of disorders, but I wouldn't be able to tell in advance what it might cure or not."

"We will use it only in cases in which streptomycin or other known anti-biotic drugs prove ineffective."

"That's the only excuse to use it until we know more about neomycin."

Eight pharmaceutical firms are manufacturing neomycin, but only in minute quantities because its final effect on human beings is still not known.

Vessel Refloated; Resumes Service

VANCOUVER (CP) — The passenger vessel Gulf Mariner, stranded Monday night on a sandbar at Squamish, was refloated and resumed normal schedule today, leaving here at 9.30 a.m. for Powell River.

The 100-foot, diesel-powered vessel went hard aground on a sandbar about 300 feet off the P.G.E. dock at Squamish. Tugs pulled her free at midnight and she arrived back at Vancouver about 2.45 a.m.

The Gulf Mariner, formerly H.M.C.S. Truro, had been chartered by the B.C. Electric Co. to carry a party of company officials and newspaper men to Squamish for the opening of a new power service. She had about 100 persons aboard when she grounded at the head of Howe Sound.

All passengers returned to Vancouver aboard the speedy little ship.

Miss M. Taylor, 1623 Belmont Avenue, is in Jubilee Hospital, suffering from a fractured right leg below the knee. She was taken to hospital by city police Sunday after being injured in a fall from a log at Clover Point.

B.C. Government Urged To Assume Rent Controls

Assumption of rent controls by the provincial government was advocated today by C.C.F. members of the B.C. Legislature in a letter to Premier Byron Johnson over the signature of Opposition Leader Harold E. Winch.

Mr. Winch advocated that B.C. immediately negotiate "with Ottawa along similar lines to the Saskatchewan government, with a view to having rent controls retained in British Columbia until the next session of the B.C. Legislature can enact the necessary administrative machinery to protect the people of this province from exorbitant increases in rents."

"Increases at this time," said Mr. Winch, "will mean a lowering of the standard of living to many thousands of citizens. To them it is a serious matter and should be so considered by your government."

Mr. Winch went on to say that the C.C.F. had always contended that the Dominion government should exercise rent control as federal jurisdiction and administration had advantages over provincial.

The increases which Mr. Abbott has announced will be permitted in the near future are, in my opinion completely out of line with the situation in British Columbia and will result in grave injustices being incurred," said Mr. Winch, referring to the federal Finance Minister's rent control program announced some time ago.

Exhibition Postponed

An exhibition of paintings by Louis Muhlstock of Montreal, originally scheduled to take place at the Art Centre, 823 Broughton Street tonight, has been postponed until Thursday, it was announced today. Members of the Art Centre are urged to attend a meeting at the Art Centre on Dec. 6 at 8 in the evening.

Baby-Sitter Charged

ABERDEEN, Wash. (AP) — Alfred Lechner, 29, was charged with second-degree murder Monday in the "baby-sitting" death of 18-month-old William Hunter here Nov. 22. Lechner, a friend of the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hunter, said in a signed statement that he dropped the baby and then accidentally stepped on its neck when he stooped to pick it up.

Wednesday was set for the trial of Jack Mills, 219 Howe Street, this morning in city police court. He is charged with careless driving. Charge was laid Nov. 22.

Two large windows at the Victoria Bottle Exchange, 640 Discovery Street, were holed by thrown rocks during Monday night, city police reported.

Awarded $2,000 Month
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two court actions Monday awarded the adopted daughter of the late Wallace Beery $2,000 monthly for a year and assets worth nearly $40,000 from his $2,500,000 estate. A Superior judge awarded Carol Ann Beery, 18, now attending a drama school in New York City, the monthly stipend retroactive to April 15, the date of Beery's death.

THE AMENDE HONORABLE

IT IS ALL TO THE GOOD THAT THE Minister of Justice, Hon. Mr. Garson, has admitted in the national forum at Ottawa that the government was remiss in delaying the presentation to Parliament of the report into the operations of alleged combines in this country. This should not have been necessary. If the law requires specific action within a given time, or if the conduct of public business does not conform to ordinary morals, then it is time for the people who send their representatives to Parliament to be told about it.

We do not subscribe to that school of thought which is deploring the fact that the administration headed by Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent was returned last June by too large a majority. It was the people of Canada who, within the privacy of the polling booths, did the job. But one of the worst consequences that could be foisted on the free people of this Dominion who endorsed the Liberal regime so emphatically would be for that regime to presume that it could throw some of the more important aspects of democratic procedure out of the window.

TOLL OF THE STORM

TRAGEDY WHICH STRUCK THE storm-tossed tugboat George McGregor and resulted in the loss of six lives and the craft itself serves once again to underscore the perils of the sea. The disaster has spread sadness in many Victoria homes where relatives and friends mourn the loss of young men who have been cut off from life too soon. The mishap, however, was of a type which could scarcely have been rendered less serious by shore-based rescue facilities. No word of it was known until the tug had foundered and the men had been lost. What could be done later in the still-stormy seas, was done.

No matter what safeguards are established for the assistance of small or larger craft, some accidents of the type which occurred off Trial Island must be expected. But it will nevertheless remain the duty of Canadians who stay ashore, and who owe part of their economic health to those who ply the seas, to see that practical life-saving equipment is available to aid those who are given time to make known their distress.

It was not alone at sea that British Columbians suffered in the week-end gale. Floods and high winds have left a record of their fury in broken bridges, damaged roads and disrupted communications systems. The Victoria region, apart from the marine tragedy, escaped relatively lightly. That is a matter of some comfort to our citizens. In some instances, clogged drains and inadequate facilities for excessive runoff have done minor injury to a few homes. But the warnings of the week-end storms should serve some purpose at least—even if it only draws attention to conditions which can be remedied and prompts quick action in that respect.

SOBER REMINDER

IN THESE DAYS OF POPULAR AGITATION in support of the "welfare state" philosophy—or that system of government which seeks to remove all economic hazard from the lives of the citizens and provide complete security "from the cradle to the grave"—it is well from time to time to give ear to those sober counsellors who remind us that no matter who or what the agencies providing such services, whether they be private or governmental, the security must be paid for. And it requires little study of the question to arrive at a conclusion as to whose dollar must be used for the paying. Governments have no money of their own; they are merely trustees for the funds collected from taxpayers. Hence the citizen who urges old age pensions, pensions for the blind, retirement pensions, "free" medical and hospital attention, and other equally worthy and commendable programs, must be prepared to pay for them through either direct or indirect levies by the government which will supervise their operation.

In the case of the hospital insurance plan inaugurated by this province the levy is direct and obvious, and to that extent its payment is opposed by those who do not like to have to foot the bill for the benefits received. But many other such arrangements are supported from general revenues and their cost to the individual is lost in the total annual payment made in the form of income tax, sales tax and other imposts.

One of the major developments in present-day industry is the growing demand for retirement pensions, with employers paying all or part of the cost. Although this is in a slightly different category from the "let-the-government-provide-it" type of security, it appears likely to grow so widespread as to take on the nature—and the problems—of national operation. Thus it is that Senator Robert A. Taft, the testy

Republican from the State of Ohio, has ventured a few comments on the situation and issued a warning that "the truth is that the only way pensions can be paid to millions who have retired and are not working is out of the current earnings of those who are working."

Senator Taft arrived at this conclusion after reviewing the possible ways in which the necessary huge funds could be provided. He estimates that to pay everyone over 65 in the United States an adequate pension would cost about $12,000,000,000 a year. Any fund accumulated on a sound actuarial basis from which such payments could be made would be so large, says Senator Taft, that it would have to purchase "most of the property in the country." That, of course, would be out of the question. Again, if the funds were invested in government bonds, the taxes required to pay the interest on the obligations would be merely another form of the pension payments themselves, with the federal authority passing the money along from taxpayer to pensioner—who might in many cases be the same person.

The Ohio senator concludes, therefore, that current taxation would be the only feasible method of providing sufficient funds, and the impact of such a heavy demand, not only on individual wage-earners, but on corporation and other taxable entities, would pose problems of first magnitude for the country's economy. Taxes tend to be passed on to consumers, and the rise in the cost of living resulting from such heavy imposts might well be such as to make the pensions insufficient for the receivers' needs. A vicious circle would then ensue.

EPIGRAMMATIC AND TRUE

WHEN FIELD MARSHAL EARL Wavell was in Canada recently he let himself go on the subjects of Germany's crimes and Russia's present policy. His remarks were pungent. They left nothing with which his critics—or those who might disagree with him—could quibble. For example, this is what he said about the former land of the last of the Hohenzollerns and Adolf Hitler: Germany has been thrice convicted of crimes which could be listed under the headings of robbery, arson, and murder.

Then the eminent soldier-statesman and historian went on to talk about the Soviet Union as he envisages that country today. He summed it up this way: Russia has been making rude noises and might be accused of what, in Great Britain, constitutes the crime of "loitering with intent to commit a felony."

Without the full context of the Field Marshal's interview it is somewhat difficult to comment with any degree of authority in respect of his version of Russo-German history and the present political and other relations between two peoples whose populations represent approximately one-seventh of the human race. But Lord Wavell evidently made it fairly clear that the present attitude manifested by the men in control at the Kremlin in Moscow is substantially attributable to German behaviour in the last half century.

Regardless of the obviously misguided attitude of the spokesmen for Premier Stalin as they deal with the spokesmen for the liberty-loving lands not shackled by the weight of the Iron Curtain, historic fact reveals that the Russians, like the French, have paid bitterly for the German crimes of robbery, arson, and murder to which Earl Wavell referred.

BLACKSTONE FOR ALL

THE SUGGESTION OF A MONTREAL lawyer that the fundamentals of law be taught in the public schools is one that might well be considered by educational authorities throughout Canada. If education is a process to equip man to cope with his complex environment, then a knowledge of the basic principles of the legal mysteries would seem to be an essential part of that process. It is not proposed that every man should become his own lawyer, but it is obvious that a better understanding of legal pitfalls could help many individuals to avoid trouble and the consequent need for a lawyer's services.

Simple law regarding contracts, receipt, employment, promissory notes, payments, rentals, property sales, and a host of everyday matters would be found very helpful in later life. It is to be noted that some school courses touch lightly on some of these topics, but, so far as is known, there is no attempt to provide instruction covering the general field of legal problems. The Montreal lawyer would seem to have a case.

CONSTRUCTIVE APPROACH

IF THE CONVENTIONAL THEORY OF supervised recreation for youth is correct, the metamorphosis in Regina which has converted an old city jail into a community centre seems completely logical. The prevailing idea is that young people, provided wholesome outlets for their energies, will not turn to anti-social activities that sometimes manifest themselves in varying degrees of delinquency.

In the Regina building, crafts are taught, artistic expression is cultivated, and opportunities are furnished for the development of character and personality along lines calculated to promote good citizenship. If that objective is reached, and if the influence of the centre is sufficiently embracing, a jail will be superfluous.

Success story: To keep up with living expenses many a man works himself to death.

Testing An Airliner

By CHARLES GARDNER, from London

EVERY TIME an important new airliner makes its maiden flight it becomes increasingly a matter of difficulty to explain just why it won't be in passenger service the very next week—or even the next year.

"But surely," says the layman, "if the airplane flies properly, and the test pilot is reported to have said it did, then why the hold-up? Aren't they fully certain it is safe, or what?"

Giving point to this subject at this moment are several very spectacular new United Kingdom airliners, none of which will be available to the general public before 1951. The great lapses of time between the debut in the skies and the debut on the routes may appear to be unreasonable and dilatory. They are in fact nothing of the sort. The first flight of the prototype airliner is merely the beginning of the story, not the end.

TAKE THE case of the Comet. She first flew in July of this year and she has made almost daily flights ever since. She has, however, hardly scratched the surface of her two-year development program which must be completed before she is handed over for trials to the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

The first flights between July and October were simply devoted to handling. During that time, John Cunningham and his crew tested the Comet purely as a lightly loaded flying machine. They proved that the controls were adequate.

THE COMET was lucky. It completed its initial handling tests without need for modifications. Most planes are not so fortunate. Usually the pilot reports that some control or other is too heavy, or that too much physical force is needed on it, or that its effect gets "blanketed" in a turn, or some such technical teething trouble. This often involves redesign of the unit concerned and can result in months of delay. There are, in fact, very few planes that do not spend more of their first six months of life inside the experimental hangar than outside it. The success of handling trials can still be to a great extent a matter of luck because, even in 1949, the successful design of control surfaces, particularly the rudder, is still very much a question of trial and error. There are, for instance, the so-called "asymmetric tests" to contend with. These tests are of flight with one or more engines switched off, and the latest international safety regulations demand very high standard of controllability at low speeds after engine failure. The new airliner must, in fact, perform well when flying lop-sided.

IN THE CASE of the Comet, the first tests have been of climb and of general handling characteristics at 30,000 to 40,000 feet which will be the plane's cruising altitude. These trials, together with fuel consumption performances, are now under way. It is during these performance tests that both the builders and the prospective operators will really begin to learn what the new plane can do.

Take fuel consumption for instance. This is a critical factor in all jet airliners, since they drink large quantities of kerosene, and it has to be quite clearly shown they can fly the route stages required with full safety margins.

FOR A LONG time to come, the Comet will be engaged on consumption tests at all altitudes and in all conditions. Copious notes will be made and many auto films taken of the instrument panels. Each set of results will then be tabulated and examined, and eventually De Havilland's will arrive at the whole handbook of pilots' instructions. This will lay down the recommended procedures, engine settings, altitudes, temperatures and so forth for all cruising conditions in every climate and will tell the operators just how to achieve maximum range or maximum speed or such combinations of the two as are suited to their requirements. Before the Comet has completed these tests, she will have made many flights, tropical and otherwise, and there will have been many conferences at Hatfield between pilot, designers, jet-engineers and B.O.A.C. experts of all kinds.

THERE ARE, however, many trials to think of other than those of optimum cruising settings. Perfectly safe pressurization is equally important. When the Comet carries passengers it will be pressurized so that at 40,000 feet the cabin will have the equivalent pressure of only 8,000 feet. Assuming no major troubles develop (and even a small one can take months to trace, redesign and put right) the aircraft will then have to face all its takeoff at load tests to make sure it has an ample safety margin should engine failure occur at takeoff, even in the thin air of the tropics. In the meantime, whole sections of the Comet will have been load tested far above, say, possible operations stress just to ensure that no part of the structure will break.

While all this is going on, manufacture of production models will have continued, but from time to time they will have been altered in the light of experience gained.

EVENTUALLY, by the time B.O.A.C. take delivery of their first Comet (and then only to do their own route trials) they will know its best speeds for climb and cruise at all heights, its full loads for all takeoff conditions, its cost to run in pence per ton mile, maintenance schedules of the airframe and engine, the best method of furnishing and soundproofing, points to watch in pressure control, and a thousand-and-one other things, each of which has been specifically learned and tabulated in the flight test program.

As Our Readers See It

NO RADIO OFFICER

In May of last year the Victoria Times commented editorially on radio service on B.C. coast passenger ships. The recent loss of the Chelohsin appears pertinent to the question.

Press reports on the matter appear quite clear on certain aspects of the recent wreck. In the first place, her radar was out of action; her radiophone was in order; and the radar station on First Narrows Bridge observed her running toward the rocks and tried to call her by radio-telephone but without success.

I can state positively that she carried no radio officer. Under existing law, none was required. Had she had one, he would undoubtedly have contacted the bridge by radiophone or some other means, and obtained the warning that under a proper set-up (something however still in the future) he would likely have been able to keep her own radar working also.

Why she failed to receive the radiophone call is a matter on which we can only speculate, but whatever the reason or excuse, the bald fact remains that in this very case the method used to eliminate the radio officer failed to function and a ship was lost as a result. To me it confirms beyond all doubt the point we have been making; that a listening watch cannot be kept, and is not kept, effectively, except by a proper radio officer devoting his time and attention solely to that task. This is most pointedly true in these moments of emergency. But for the luck of the location, lives might well have been lost too. Perhaps the loss of this vessel would have paid for radio officers for the whole Union fleet for years to come.

RACIAL MATTERS

With reference to your editorial comment of November 26 regarding the efforts of a woman in Nova Scotia who voluntarily operated a school for negro children in her own home.

If the reason for this was discrimination, it is indeed an isolated case.

For 23 years I lived in Truro, Nova Scotia, attended public and high school and business college in that town. At least 10 per cent of my school chums were negro. I consider it a privilege to number among my friends Miss Shirley Morgan, daughter of a former pastor in Zion Baptist Church, Truro, for her untiring efforts to organize a school of household economics for colored girls in Nova Scotia. This is only one instance.

I might say I was stunned to realize a Victoria man was doubtful whether or not he should ask me to dance after seeing me dance with a colored gentleman, even though I had formally met this gentleman at a social gathering.

Victoria is the last place to discuss discrimination.

Conquering Seasickness--Again

By THOMAS R. HENRY, N.A.N.A. Science Editor

THE NEW drug, dramamine, introduced during the war as both a preventative and cure of seasickness and for which extravagant claims have been made, is of real value if the dreaded nausea exists in the body and not in the mind.

ACID TESTS

Its efficacy has been subjected to acid tests by the U.S. Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. It has been tried out on old sailors, recruits, marines, airmen and expectant mothers. In every test it has shown some value, Capt. Christopher C. Shaw of the U.S. Navy Medical Corps has reported to the Association of Surgeons.

Complications seem to rest in the fact that a good deal of seasickness is imaginary. In such cases dramamine seems somewhat less effective than sugar pills—which have no physical effect whatsoever, so long as the person being treated doesn't know the difference.

MINOR PROBLEM

For the navy itself, seasickness is an almost non-existent problem. Less than one sailor per thousand, per year, is placed on the sick list because of it. Even among persons not used to the sea, and most persons recover in a few days anyway, regardless of continuing rough seas.

Altogether tests were made with approximately 900 individuals. It, at least, halved the incidence among chronic mal-dormer victims. The effect of a small preventative dose lasted about five hours. About twice as heavy a dose was needed for a cure.

MOTHERS TOO

The drug also was found to have considerable value in preventing and curing nausea of expectant mothers, although the effect was not as good as in seasickness.

London's Great Landmark

From London Calling

THERE has been a church on the site of St. Paul's from early Saxon times, but little or nothing is known of the church itself before the Norman conquest. The current exhibition in the cathedral, and the history of St. Paul's through the centuries, starts with old St. Paul's, the cathedral begun by William Rufus after 1088; and we see in the exhibition a whole series of paintings and drawings showing the church as a mixture of Norman and early English architecture, a structure of round and pointed arches, under the shadow of a tall, tapering spire.

IN FLAMES

This great, old church survived for nearly 500 years, but, in 1666, the great fire destroyed St. Paul's as it destroyed London itself, and there is a picture in the exhibition of Ludgate Hill and the cathedral in flames.

It was here that Sir Christopher Wren came into the picture. He was asked to design the new cathedral, and he submitted plan after plan for the new St. Paul's. There is one large-sized model (20x17 feet) made of oak, limewood and plaster. It shows a large central dome, with a smaller dome in front, and a portico in the classical Greek style. The details of this plan were rejected, and it needed nine years of discussion and compromise before everyone could agree on a design for the new St. Paul's. Work then began in earnest, and was completed in the relatively short time of 35 years.

The exhibition shows relics of the Wren period, such as a flowered waistcoat belonging to the architect himself, his pen-knife and a strange stick used to chase away stray dogs that entered the cathedral.

Some 200 years went by and no one questioned the solidity of the cathedral until 1913, when a commission of inquiry found that the foundations were not as reliable as they might have been. The dome and buttresses weigh something like 67,000 tons, and before 1913 they rested upon eight large piers, which, in turn, rested on hollow casings of Portland stone, filled with rubble.

The exhibition shows, by models and designs, what survey work was done before the cathedral was temporarily evacuated in 1923. Work on the foundations started immediately, and the hollow casings were solidified by pumping cement into them. All went well, and in 1930 the cathedral was again opened for worship.

Also on view are the remains of the altar cross destroyed by a German bomb during the Second World War. And close by is a simple photograph—a photograph we all know—taken when fire bombs destroyed almost every building around St. Paul's, but spared the cathedral.

NEW CENTRE

In the library, close by, are some recently acquired manuscripts dating from the period of Queen Elizabeth, which throw considerable light on the history of the Reformation. This library, together with the exhibition, are to form a new centre for Londoners.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

MILLIONS of Europeans undoubtedly are breathing easier because of the unqualified reiteration of the United States policy against any rearming of Germany.

Both Defence Secretary Louis Johnson and Gen. Omar Bradley, who are overseas conferring with western Europe's top military men, have declared emphatically that the United States government has no intention of rearming the Reich. This position previously had been announced by President Truman and State Secretary Dean Acheson, but it likely gathers force from the fact that Johnson and Bradley are working on a unified plan for the defence of western Europe.

Europe's fear and hatred of German militarism has become deep-seated as the result of the two catastrophic world wars. She thought she had hamstrung this Teutonic spirit of conquest with the Treaty of Versailles at the end of the first conflict which the Kaiser almost won. But in 1935 dictator Hitler started to tear up the pact by brazenly inaugurating an unlimited armament program and compulsory military service.

NO THIRD WAR

From then on Europe watched in helpless fascination, like a bird hypnotized by a snake, while the arrogant Fuehrer openly prepared for war. Western Europe is determined not to be caught in a third world war perpetrated by the Reich or anybody else. France in particular is adamant in demanding that Germany be rendered harmless.

The justice of this allied position has been recognized tacitly by the new German republic at Bonn. "The government" has agreed to the allied demilitarization demands. Moreover, it has promised to do all in its power to prevent the creation of new German military strength.

This means, of course, that Germany must remain impotent militarily for perhaps a long period—how long is one of the imperponderables. In any event, the chiefs of staff of Britain, the United States and France, meeting in Paris to lay plans for the defence of western Europe, must figure on Germany as a military nonentity for the present.

OUTDATED FEUDS

Christian Science Monitor

We have opposed general laws to outlaw strikes, for the Constitution bars involuntary servitude. Surely our civilization should have the intelligence to find more efficient methods of establishing justice. Surely our society must in self-protection require some industries to agree ahead of time to arbitration of their labor disputes. The private wars by which feudal lords once adjudicated their differences were no more ridiculous either as poor methods of determining justice or as workers of injustice upon innocent bystanders. It should not be many years before people will wonder why this type of feuding was ever tolerated. The first step is for the public to insist on better ways.

MORNING GULF AND DASH

New York Times

The picture so often drawn of the worker on his morning dash—without breakfast, or having gulped on the fly what passes for breakfast in a surprisingly large number of homes—for the nearest transportation would be funny were it not a little pathetic. Man will put up with indignation and frazzled nerves, starting his morning under a cloud from which he never quite emerges as the day wears on, merely because he declines to roll out of his bed before that critical moment beyond which, if he loses a minute, a late arrival at work becomes a certainty. Too few of us know the pleasures of arising leisurely, allowing time for calm study of the problem offered by the buttonless shirt or broken shoelace, time for breakfast that sticks to the ribs and encourages a benign view of the world even as it sometimes is portrayed in the morning paper, time for an unhurried walk to the wheels on which we are rolled to work, time for contemplating the weather and our feverish fellow-men. Getting to work a few minutes early—not merely on time—lends one a feeling of being on top of the job and not vice versa. Time is something we treat shabbily too often. And when we do it, after all, not ourselves we use ill and not the hour.

My Three Years In Moscow

By Lieut.-Gen.
Walter Bedell Smith

Western Allies Realize At Kremlin Stage Set For Crisis In Berlin

Installment 22

I wondered, as I drove to the Kremlin with General Marshall and Mr. Bohnen on the night of April 15, whether Stalin had read the minutes of the meeting at which Secretary Marshall had given his definition of democracy. General Marshall purposely had deferred requesting an interview with Stalin until the pattern of the conference had been established. As it now was clear that no amount of time and energy would be able to give the conference a real basis for agreement, so far as the German problem was concerned, it seemed the time was appropriate for re-stating to Stalin the position of the United States—its willingness to co-operation and its determination not to be coerced.

Both Mr. Bevin and M. Bidault had called upon Generalissimo Stalin already, and Secretary Marshall's call no longer could be delayed without discourtesy.

The setting of the meeting was identical with that of my own first interview. Mr. Molotov and young Mr. Troyanovsky, the Foreign Office interpreter, were with Stalin when the paneled conference room which adjoins Stalin's private office. Stalin greeted the secretary in a friendly fashion, spoke to Bohnen and to me and then took his usual seat at the end of the table, with Mr. Molotov on his left. Bohnen, who is one of our outstanding Russian specialists and fluent in the language, interpreted for General Marshall, whose initial presentation was a quiet but forceful review of the difficulties which had beset us since the Potsdam Conference. Our present negotiations, said the secretary, involved not only the security of Europe and the world, but the prosperity of all Europe. While our specific mission was to consider the terms of a treaty operating over a long term of years, we were faced with immediate issues which concerned in the most vital way the impoverished and suffering people of Europe.

Stalin listened impassively while the American secretary of state reviewed the deterioration of relations between the East and West, and the tragic consequences which this seemed to portend to the entire world. From time to time, Stalin puffed at a long Russian cigarette, or "doodled" with a blue pencil on the notepad before him. He did not comment, or interrupt, and only exchanged a quick "whispered word with Molotov when General Marshall referred to Soviet delay, or failure, to reply to our requests for a lend-lease settlement and similar outstanding questions of importance.

QUIET, FRIENDLY TONE

When Secretary Marshall concluded his remarks, Stalin began to speak in an equally quiet and friendly tone.

"It is wrong," he said, "to give so tragic an interpretation to our present disagreements."

He looked upon our differences like a quarrel within a family. With reference to the present conference, and the problem of Germany, the differences which had developed were "only the first skirmishes and brushes or reconnaissance forces" on this question. Differences had occurred in the past on other questions, he went on, and as a rule "when people had exhausted themselves in dispute, they recognized the necessity of compromise."

It was possible, he said, that no great success would be achieved at this session, but he thought that compromises were possible on all the main issues. Including the demilitarization of Germany, its political structure, reparations, and economic unity. It was necessary to have patience, and not to become pessimistic.

"With regard to Soviet delays in replying to your representations on various subjects," he continued, "I would remind Mr. Marshall that more than two years ago the Soviet government made a request of the United States for a financial credit, and that to date no reply or acknowledgment has ever been received."

At this point, I thought it proper to pass to Mr. Molotov a note to remind him that when I came to Moscow, I had brought the reply to this request. Mr. Molotov whispered this to Stalin, and received in return a distinct "family" look. The generalissimo then corrected his statement accordingly, but remarked that even a year's delay in replying seemed to him to be something excessive.

He certainly had a good point area. At the Potsdam Conference, President Truman accepted this only as a temporary situation, and it was there agreed that "the heads of government reaffirm their opinion that the final determination of the western frontier of Poland should await the peace settlement."

Mr. Molotov stubbornly disregarded this agreement, although he constantly reverted to the other agreements made at Potsdam, which he charged us with violating. He contended that a final agreement on the frontier between Germany and Poland had been reached at Potsdam and that the statement I have quoted above merely meant that a formal confirmation of the already agreed upon frontier would be made at the peace settlement, after only technical discussions.

There was no fact, logic or reason to support this position—only the maddening Soviet formulas, "It is well known," or "As it is generally known." I am sure that there is no statesman or diplomat who has dealt with the Russians who has not, at some time or other, sat in silent fury while a Soviet representative smugly produced one of these exasperating phrases to back up an absolutely false and untenable proposal. They were used at the Moscow Conference more extensively than ever before in my own experience, and I thought often of Benjamin Franklin's formula for a diplomat: "Sleepless tact, unmovable calmness and a patience that no folly, no provocation, no blunders can shake."

NO FACT, LOGIC, REASON

Reparations from Germany's current production was another sticking point. With the bitter lesson of the Versailles Treaty of 1919 before them, the conferees at Potsdam had agreed upon the principle of getting reparations from capital assets; that is, by the actual transfer or removal of German industrial plants, machinery and physical assets to the allied powers concerned. The Soviet Union had liked this idea at the time. It visualized a wonderful improvement in Soviet economy if fine, modern German industries were transplanted bodily to the Soviet Union.

At Moscow, the Soviet conferees flatly denied their agreement and demanded reparations from current German production. I knew why. The unskilled methods used by the Soviet Army in dismantling German industrial plants had been enormously wasteful, and it had proved difficult for the Russians to re-establish these plants in the Soviet Union.

MACHINERY DETERIORATES

Foreigners who traveled by rail from Berlin to Moscow reported that every railroad yard and siding was jammed with German machinery, much of it deteriorating in the rain and snow. The plan had proved a disappointment. Molotov's demand for $10,000,000,000 in reparations from current German production (the refused to give any information as to the value already taken out of Germany) meant that a very large portion of the daily production of almost all German factories would go for reparations payments to the Soviet Union for a long time.

The United States was putting money into Germany in the expectation that the German economy would become self-supporting in three years. The Soviet demand would delay indefinitely the day when Germany would be self-supporting. Since her economy would collapse without U.S. aid in the meantime, granting the full Soviet claim for reparations would mean simply that the American taxpayers were paying for operating an industrial complex to manufacture products for the Soviet Union. We were willing to study the possibility of a limited amount of reparations from current production to compensate the Russians if they left in place industrial plants previously scheduled for removal to the Soviet Union. But Molotov wanted to eat his cake and have it too. For this reason, he made no response to our suggestion.

The debate over the American proposal for a progressive reduction in "the number of occupation troops in Germany found the Soviet authorities attempting to confuse the issue by declaring that they needed for their zone 200,000 troops, but that the British and the Americans should have only 100,000 each, or a total of 200,000 between them, because they had unified their zones. Mr. Molotov proposed that the French should have 50,000 troops. To this proposal, Mr. Bevin replied that he had been instructed to agree to 145,000 for the British zone, the Soviet figure of 100,000 being a little too low. M. Bidault said the French government could not agree to a figure below 70,000 for the French zone. Being unable to agree among themselves, the foreign ministers referred the issue to the Allied Control Council in Germany.

TRY TO NULLIFY ECONOMIC FUSION

The Russians, it seemed clear from the outset, were determined to nullify the economic fusion of the British and the American occupied zones of Germany, (which the French later were to join) and put the meeting of their full reparations demands, including payments from current production, as the price for economic and political unification of Germany as a whole. Although there were at that time differences between the French, the British and the Americans as to the best political and economic policies to be pursued in Germany, none of the three Western powers could accede to the Soviet demands.

The Soviet proposals, Secretary Marshall told the Council of Ministers on March 31, could be accomplished immediately only by reducing imports, which he said inevitably would reduce German per capita consumption to about 1,100 calories per day, "which is inadequate over any considerable period of time to sustain life."

"The people of Europe lack the elementary necessities of life," General Marshall continued. "This lack can be filled only by the production of goods of all kinds. A reasonable increase in the level of industry in Germany will help in time to produce more goods. With the four-power treaty which we have proposed guaranteeing the continued demilitarization of Germany, a reasonable increase in the level of industry should not endanger European security but should contribute materially to European recovery."

"The United States is opposed to policies which will continue Germany as a congested slum or an economic poorhouse in the center of Europe. At the same time, we recognize that Germany must pay reparations to the countries who suffered from its aggression. Within these limits, we want Germany to use its resources of skilled manpower, energy and industrial capacity to rebuild the network of trade on which European prosperity depends. Ultimately, it desires to see a peaceful Germany, with strong democratic roots, take its place in the European and world community of nations."

BASIC DIFFERENCES

The Western representatives were not entirely surprised over difficulties they encountered in attempting to reach an agreement on Germany, but they had expected progress in formulating a treaty for Austria. Here, at first, things went well, and agreement was reached on all but a few points. But these few were basic and of fundamental importance. The Soviet Union made much of its support to the claims of Yugoslavia for reparations and for the cession of a part of Carinthia from Austria to Yugoslavia. But from remarks made by members of the Soviet delegation, and finally from a covert proposal made by Molotov during the final days of the conference, it was clear that the Soviet Union would abandon its advocacy of Yugoslav claims at once if the Kremlin's definition of what constituted "Germany's assets" in Austria, to which Russia was entitled by prior agreement, were accepted by the Western Allies. Acceptance of the Soviet definition would have meant the removal from Austrian control of so large a portion of Austrian economy that the little nation's chances of surviving as an independent and self-supporting state would have been almost impossible. All efforts to find a compromise were unavailing. The Austrian delegation, headed by its strong, young foreign minister, Herr Gruber, though grievously disappointed, showed great courage and fortitude in the face of the Soviet pressures to which it was subject.

AUSTRIANS WEARY

The Austrians are weary and apprehensive. They have had several years of liberation from Nazi domination, and now their devout hope is to be liberated from their "liberators," but their leaders are wise enough to realize that the liberation must be complete or not at all. I saw nothing in the Soviet position to warrant any change in this estimate. I recorded in my journal in 1946: "The U.S.S.R. wants a treaty with Austria which will sanction Soviet interference in Austrian internal affairs at any time under the guise of preventing anti-Soviet or pan-German propaganda and through retention of Austrian property claimed by the Soviet Union as German assets."

The best summary of the conference was given by General Marshall in these words:

"Agreement was made impossible at Moscow because, in our view, the Soviet Union insisted upon proposals which would have established in Germany a centralized government, adapted to the seizure of absolute control of a country which would be doomed economically through inadequate area and excessive population, and would be mortgaged to turn over a large part of its production as reparations, principally to the Soviet Union. In another form the same mortgage upon Austria was claimed by the Soviet delegation."

"Such a plan, in the opinion of the United States delegation, not only involved indefinite American subsidy, but could result only in a deteriorating economic life in Germany and Europe and the inevitable emergence of dictatorship and strife."

LAST ACT AT KREMLIN

The last act of the drama took place in the Kremlin, where, in the magnificent hall of Catherine the Great, Stalin gave his dinner for the chiefs of the four delegations and their principal assistants. The American guests were Secretary Marshall, Mr. Ben Cohen, then Counselor of the State Department, Mr. Bohnen, and myself. We assembled in a large anteroom, heavy with red velvet hangings, where were gathered the senior officers of the Foreign Office, several of the marshals of the Soviet Union and all the members of the Politburo, with the exception of Stalin and Molotov, who entered only after all the others were assembled. Although I had been in Moscow more than a year, this was the first time I had seen at close range in one room the small group of men who rule the Soviet Union. The officers of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and of the armed forces wore their full dress uniforms and medals. The Politburo members generally were dressed in dark, double or single-breasted civilian suits; Malinikov, however, had the old party uniform tunic, with high, turned-down cloth collar.

After a few minutes, Stalin and Molotov entered, the former dressed in his usual uniform—not the blue-green uniform worn for dress by Soviet general officers and marshals, but the color similar to that the U.S. army calls "suntan." Molotov wore a dark blue civilian suit instead of the Foreign Office uniform, in which he rarely appeared. As they passed around the room, each greeted the guests individually. Stalin then entered the dining-room and we followed.

NOT FABULOUS DINNER

I had heard of the fabulous Kremlin dinners, with endless toasts drunk in vodka or champagne. This was nothing of the kind. It was instead a well-appointed, well-served banquet, no more ostentatious than the average American formal dinner and much less so than others I have seen elsewhere in Europe. Molotov and Stalin faced each other across the center of the long table. Secretary Marshall was on Stalin's right, Mr. Bevin sat on his left, and M. Bidault was next to Mr. Molotov.

I was interested to find that Mr. Zhdanov (now dead), whom I had never met before, was on my right. Opposite me sat Voznesensky, the youngest member of the Politburo, who since has been removed without explanation. I noted that Zhdanov ate nothing whatever except a plate of clear soup, and he explained his abstemiousness by saying that he was on a diet. He talked little, but we exchanged a few words through an interpreter and later a phrase or two in French. Voznesensky went out his way to be pleasant, smiling and lifting his glass whenever he caught the eye of a foreign guest.

Only five toasts were proposed, one by Stalin to President Truman and Secretary Marshall, one by Mr. Molotov to his other conference colleagues and the usual replies by the three Western statesmen, who in one way or another expressed some disappointment at current progress but added their hope for the future. The atmosphere was serious and quiet, but not unfriendly, and the dinner was not prolonged—it hardly lasted an hour.

STALIN PROUD OF FILM

Afterward, Stalin led us down a curving flight of stairs, carpeted in blue, to a moving picture theatre, decorated in blue, with curtain and upholstered individual seats of the same color. The seats were grouped in pairs, and in front of each pair was a small table on which stood a box of chocolates, cigarettes, two tall glasses and a double magnum of champagne. My "personal host" was Mr. Mikoyan, the intelligent and worldly-wise little Armenian who at that time was both a member of the Politburo and the Minister of Foreign Trade. The picture was the recently-produced Soviet color film, "The Stone Flower," a European prize-winning production, of which Stalin obviously was proud. He had reason to be, I thought, as both the story—a Russian folk tale of the Ural Mountains—and the actors were good, and the scenic effects in color frequently were splendid.

We were home by midnight—probably a record for entertainment at the Kremlin. It would have been a pleasant evening, had it not been for the general feeling of gloomy frustration on the Western side of the house. Many present wondered, I am sure, if this would not be the last conference of foreign ministers. The alternatives of a divided Germany, or a Germany under the effective economic and political domination of the Soviet Union had become unmistakably clear. The Westerners all were facing the cold reality that if the latter alternative were to be prevented, their desire for an undivided Germany could no longer be made an excuse for inaction in Western Germany, which now must be effectively associated with the Western European powers through economic arrangement and perhaps ultimately through mutual political understanding. In the Kremlin it must have been fully appreciated that, at long last, Soviet objectives in Germany were clearly understood by the Western powers and now were impossible of attainment by diplomatic manoeuvre. Thus the stage was set for the crisis in Berlin.

Aldermanic Candidates State Platforms In Election Drive

Ten aldermanic candidates for the coming civic elections appeared on the same platform Tuesday.

They each gave three-minute speeches at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce which invited the election talks to stimulate interest in civic affairs.

The aldermanic candidates who spoke were: Mrs. Hilda Baxter, Edward Mallek, William F. Pinfold, Percy B. Scurrah, Ald. Margaret Christie, Ald. Waldo Skillings, Charles S. Henley, Ald. Charles Banfield, Burgess J. Gadsden and Harold E. Ker.

Their talks in brief follow:

Mrs. Baxter—She was seeking election to finish the uncompleted term of her husband, the late Ald. John Baxter, because she could give the type of representation the people who elected him desired. She supported appointment of a city administrator to co-ordinate city hall departments. The city council had been advised to make such an appointment by the reliable business consultant company of Stevenson and Kellogg. Library and new city hall plans should be made with a view to future amalgamation of Greater Victoria. Mrs. Baxter did not think the civic administration had been colored by politics.

Mr. Mallek—He could not understand city council's quick acceptance of a conditional offer for purchase of the Ogden Point grain elevator. "Would any businessman agree to sell his home on a seven-month option without demanding a down payment?" he asked. He thought it was the right time to sell the elevator. Grain storage space was at a premium. But why "jump" at the first offer? City council's civic service committee kept the offer quiet, then rushed it through the council last Friday. It was not good business. It was too bad the $200,000 offer had been accepted. It would cost $1,000,000 at least to replace the elevator and a fair price would be one-third of the replacement cost.

Mr. Pinfold—He thought the city was in need of good business management. He had owned and managed businesses across Canada for 35 years. Present and past city councils had spent too much time running the city and not enough time planning for the future. "That's why I believe we need a city manager." The manager would give the mayor and aldermen more time to look into the future. "The right man in the position would bring efficiency to civic services and bring financial saving to the city."

Mr. Scurrah—He had conducted a successful business here since 1912 and "I've learned the value of a dollar." More people were needed at the city hall who understood money matters. Proper business management of civic affairs was necessary. He thought Junior Chamber of Commerce was to be commended for its efforts to "bring out the vote" at the Dec. 8 elections. Those who will be elected would know the people were behind them if a big percentage of the voters exercised the franchise.

Mrs. Christie—She hoped she would be given jobs on the city council similar to those she now had—chairman of social welfare committee and union board of health. In her five years in office she had opened the Gorge Road Nursing Home for the needy, the Greater Victoria juvenile detention home, and had been responsible for the building of a sick bay at the Aged Men's Home which was to be opened Wednesday. She favored amalgamation. Through her efforts the four municipalities had joined in the operation of the detention home.

Mr. Skillings—He said the running of the city was big business. The city was spending $5,000,000 of "yours and my money this year." It required good business brains to handle. "Any fool can spend money but it takes a smart business man to spend judiciously and save tax dollars." City council was run by "big four." Those "sitting below the salt" did not have a say. The city was in debt deeply. Borrowing power under Municipal Act was only $1,180,000. The $350,000 library loan by-law would reduce this to $830,000.

Mr. Henley—He said result of the business administration of the city would only reach the standard of those who run the city, and asked: "How many of the present aldermen would you put on a board of directors of your business?" As a long-time businessman, he thought he was capable of selecting a city manager. He favored amalgamation. But no well-managed municipality would join the city unless the city was managed properly. If the Non-Partisan League slate was elected the city would have proper direction. "And no half-million dollar building would be constructed for one million dollars."

Mr. Banfield—He promised full support of the mandate of the people on the city manager, director of administration by-law. His "pet schemes" as a member of city council the past two years had been the fishermen's wharf and harbor clean-up. The fishermen's wharf was bringing revenue to the city and with proper administration this could be increased. The condition of the harbor was a serious matter and he was endeavoring to have the city's "gates" to the harbor improved to give a good impression. He thought a new city hall should be built on the old cathedral property, not immediately, but perhaps in three years.

Mr. Gadsden—He thought the meeting of all candidates "is genuine non-partisanship." It was not a presentation of a group of selected candidates supported by high-pressure advertising mediums with the object of close-herding voters on election day. He was concerned at increasing taxes and business licenses. He would strive to lower both. Development of the tourist business to the utmost was another of his aims. He pioneered appointment of a city manager for Victoria. It would help bring amalgamation.

Mr. Ker—He thought the taxpayers were "at the end of the rope." No city was richer than the power of the taxpayer to pay property taxes. A new city hall was needed in Victoria but the city should get out of debt before attempting such a project. He praised all city councils for their efforts, but he thought the present council should have got free advice from capable local businessmen on changes needed in administration. But instead the council spent good money to get the Stevenson and Kellogg Report.

Remand For Penalty In Receiving Case

Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court Monday remanded 19-year-old Thomas A. McNaughton, Front Street, to Wednesday for sentence.

Through counsel Joseph McKenna, McNaughton today pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawfully receiving a stolen watch, the property of Agnes Sawyer, an Indian. Magistrate Hall asked for a report from the probation officer.

Mr. McKenna asked the court for leniency.

When Money Takes Wings

MONEY takes wings today faster than ever before. True... many people are earning more—but the cost of living uses up a much greater proportion. Few indeed can hope to accumulate large sums for future emergencies.

How, then, can you ever hope to lay aside enough money to provide for your family in case of your untimely death—or for the years when your earning capacity will cease?

The only sure way is through Life Insurance. It would take years to build an adequate savings fund for your dependents, but a proportion of your savings put into Life Insurance will immediately guarantee to them a monthly income in case of your death. At the same time it will provide for your declining years should you live to old age.

Constable William Andrews of the city police accident investigation squad suffered a broken rib and other bruised ribs Monday evening when the prowler car, above, with siren and red light flashing, was in collision with another car. Officer was treated at the hospital and then released. Police car was proceeding north on Government Street when it was in collision with a car driven by V. G. Enfield east on Mill Street and turning north on Government. After this, the police car collided with a parked car owned by Thomas Gold, 642 Niagara Street, parked on the east side of Government. Total damage done to the three cars was estimated at $500.

Labor Delegates From 55 Countries Assemble In London

LONDON (CP)—Representatives of free trade unions in 55 countries assembled here today to set up a new world labor organization free from political controls.

A preparatory committee Sunday put final touches on a proposed constitution to be presented today at the first of a number of meetings to be held at the county hall. A name for the new organization which is gaining favor among the 232 delegates is "Free World Labor Confederation." It will invite co-operation by unions the world over which have had no international ties since many withdrew from the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions. Campaigning most vigorously for binding guarantees that the new group shall be free of any taint of Communism are 21 American delegates, including William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Britain's Trade Union Congress has 10 delegates and five Canadians are attending the meeting. Four delegates are from the Canadian Congress of Labor, including Pat Conroy, Congress secretary-treasurer. Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, is representing the T.L.C.

WHIPSNADE, England (CP)—Triplet tiger cubs have been born at Whipsnade Zoo—the first here in many years. Zoo Superintendent E. H. Tong said that tigers are difficult to breed in England but all three cubs are doing well.

Gargantua Victim Of Many Ailments

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gargantua apparently was a mighty sick gorilla with a long list of ailments when he died, a John's Hopkins specialist indicated Monday.

Dr. Adolph Hans Schultz, assistant professor of physical anthropology at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, said he had just completed an initial autopsy on the 550-pound circus beast.

But he wouldn't say what caused the gorilla's death. That is to be announced by John Ringling North, president of the circus which donated the beast to Hopkins for research.

Dr. Schultz indicated inspection of the animal would go on for several weeks. After that, Gargantua's huge body will go to Yale University for mounting and display.

ROANOKE, Va.—Walter H. Scott picked up a massive second-hand piano at a rural auction for $25, then went to a piano tuner to get it repaired. He found he had bought a 90-year-old Waters of Rosewood antique worth $2,000.

Seamen's Institute—Arrangement of special Christmas cheer for the two hospitals was discussed by the ladies' committee to the Victoria Seamen's Institute, at a meeting in the Y.W.C.A. Thursday.

Mrs. V. Thomson, president, was in the chair. Woolens, fruit, cigarettes and magazines will be distributed. Woolens will also be provided for visiting deepsea seamen and fuel and woolens for sea veterans living at home. An informative talk on conditions abroad was given by Mrs. Roberts, a member who recently returned from her second visit to England. The people are very dependent on overseas food parcels. Another C.A.R.E. parcel has been sent to the wife and four children of James Stone, the paralyzed "Sampep" seaman.

A surprise shower was held last evening by Misses Lois Simpson and Pat Armstrong, to honor Miss Deenie Luske, whose marriage takes place Saturday. The miscellaneous shower was held at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Luske, Lee Avenue, and corsage bouquets were presented to the honor guest and her mother. Games were played during the evening. Other guests were Mrs. Joyce Lang, Mrs. M. Hall, Miss Betty Palaschek and Miss Emily Krushelnick.

A miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Barbara Oakley at her home, 3830 Saul Street, in honor of Miss Shirley Simmons, a December bride-elect. A corsage bouquet of pink roses was presented to Miss Simmons. Her numerous gifts were arranged in a wishing well decorated with flowers. Those present were Mesdames J. Wainwright, H. Scott, William, N. Colyer, J. Fleming, M. Bickford, W. F. Oakley and Mrs. A. L. Oakley.

Plans for the 1950 conference of B.C. Women's Institutes to be held at the University of British Columbia in June, were outlined at a meeting of the provincial board in Vancouver Nov. 25 and 26.

Mrs. Stella Gummow, superintendent of Women's Institutes for British Columbia, attended the meeting as did Mrs. E. Glover, provincial board director, from Vancouver Island. Mrs. Gummow returned to Victoria Monday.

Mrs. J. H. East of Keremeos, provincial president, was appointed delegates to the Associated Countrywomen of the World meeting, to be held in Denmark in September, 1950.

While in Vancouver the provincial board entertained their scholarship winner, Laura Stowell, and Miss Charlotte Black, director of Home Economics at the U.B.C. Mrs. East and Mrs. Gummow attended the Federation of Agriculture meeting held at Hotel Vancouver, during their stay.

The Women's Institutes are associate members of the Federation of Agriculture.

Many Games, Stalls For Winter Fair

To complete plans for the second annual Winter Fair of St. Saviour's Church, the committee in charge met recently in the guild room. Under co-convenership of Rev. Douglas Kendall and J. Robertson, the fair will be held Friday in the Parish Hall, and will be opened by Major S. H. Okell promptly at 2.30.

In addition to stalls of fancy work, candy, home cooking, garden produce, Christmas gifts, groceries, white elephant and toys, there will be fortune telling, attractions for children and a refreshment bar.

In the evening a large carnival of games and contests will be held under co-convenership of the Men's Society. Refreshments will be served by the Altar Guild.

A Golden Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. L. George, pioneer residents of Milne's Landing, will be at home to their friends next Saturday evening from 7 until 10 at their Milne's Landing home, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Four daughters and a son will be present for the celebration, Mrs. F. Balch, Neah Bay, Wash.; Mrs. B. Thomas, Mrs. L. Parkin, Mrs. F. ## POPULAR BABY IS MOTHER'S SHOPPING GUIDE

A mother can't go wrong when she starts shopping for her baby at about the age of three months. That's the time most infants are given Heinz Baby Foods, and mothers find them easily on shelves below this sign. There are 27 Heinz Strained Foods, 17 Heinz Junior Foods and two Heinz Baby Cereals, all good for little tummies. Just look for that smiling baby.

ORANGE PECAN COOKIES

One cup margarine, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 egg (beaten), 1 tablespoon orange peel, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 2½ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped pecans.

Soften fat, add sugars, creaming well. Add beaten egg, orange juice and grated peel. Add dry ingredients sifted together and chopped pecans. Shape into roll, wrap in wax paper and chill two hours or overnight. Slice thin, bake on cookie sheet in moderate oven, 375 degrees F. for 10 minutes or until light brown at edges. Makes about five dozen.

Your Baby And Mine

By

MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

'BAD' HABITS SOOTH INNER TURMOIL AND UNHAPPINESS

Almost all bad habits are emotionally as well as physically inspired. A baby may suck its thumb when it is hungry, but when an older child has this habit chronically, or picks its nose, or grinds its teeth, or bites its nails, we may be sure that he or she is emotionally disturbed.

What shall a parent look for as causes of emotional ill-health? First, certainly, the way in which the parents are treating the child. Parents, even conscientious ones, are often slow to express their love for the child, and however they do love him he cannot possibly know it except as they tell it to him and show it by their behavior.

What other reasons has the child for feeling insecure? Perhaps there has been a break in the family circle because of death or divorce. A parent has to exude confidence herself (or himself) in order to build up that lost confidence in the child. She must do it if the child is not to suffer emotionally from such an event.

Perhaps there have been economic stringencies which cause a parent to feel worried and show it. Or the child senses by the anxieties of the parents that all is not well with his family's fortunes, because he is helpless to improve such conditions they make him the more disturbed; and he shows it by his nervous or irritable conduct.

Does the child feel himself established firmly in the regard of persons outside the family? Everyone has to feel wanted and liked by his contemporaries, as well as his family, and the child who is picked on by companions, or repudiated by them, is a child who may feel such a lack of personal worth that his only solace will be one of the "bad" habits which temporarily soothe his inner turmoil and unhappiness.

To a parent it may seem far less satisfying to delve into the child's background and environment in search of the cause of his disturbance; than to attack the habit head-on with some magic cure. But, there can never be a real cure until the emotional health is sound. A child may be made to stop biting his finger nails but he will then pull on his ear, or suck a thumb, or blink his eyes. The disappearance of one nervous habit is followed by the appearance of another. The end of these comes when the child is freed from his tensions and anxieties. Then the habit, whatever its nature, has an opportunity to die.

Our leaflet No. 82 "Nervous Habits" may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Canadian Woman Gets Japanese Appointment

TORONTO (CP) — Alice K. Carroll, formerly of Toronto, has been appointed special social welfare adviser to the Japanese government and the allied command in Japan.

Friends of Miss Carroll here said she will leave for Tokyo before Christmas. At present psychiatric case work supervisor of child guidance clinics for the British Columbia provincial government, Miss Carroll will spend two weeks at United Nations headquarters in Lake Success studying her new assignment.

Miss Carroll was one of 12 Canadian social welfare workers sent to Britain in 1942 to work with child evacuees and returned to Canada in 1947. She was born in England and is a graduate of University of Toronto. At present she is on leave of absence in Vancouver.

To Officiate At Opening Of I.O.D.E. Bazaar

Mrs. W. C. Nichol, second vice-president, Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., will open the Florence Nightingale Chapter annual Christmas bazaar Thursday afternoon at 2 in K. of P. Hall, 723 Cormorant Street. There will be a good display of Christmas gifts; afternoon tea will be served and a musical program presented. Mrs. Joyce Swannell, instructor in art therapy, and Miss Margaret Iard, occupational therapist, are in charge of a booth of articles made by patients at the Royal Jubilee Hospital pavilion.

British Girls Take To Tattoo Needles; Choose Bird, Bells

LONDON (CP) — British girls like to be tattooed.

Since the end of the war tattooers have found that one out of every 10 customers is a girl.

The ladies don't like anything too fancy—just a short name, perhaps. If they change the boy friend they can have the name deleted by a nine-day treatment.

Sometimes they choose a flying bird, a butterfly or church bells.

One tattooer shaped a star on a woman's shoulder, a dragon on a girl's kneecap and a flower in the middle of an office girl's back.

Prices range from three shillings (45 cents) for a name to 15 shillings for a tiger or a woman's figure. Birds and butterflies cost 6s 9d, Indians 12s, and a handclasp 6s.

Engagements

The engagement is announced of Dorothy Bangs of Vancouver, B.C., and Mr. John Hallier, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hallier of Victoria, B.C. The wedding is to take place on December 10, 1949, at 7:30 o'clock in the Canadian Memorial Church, Vancouver, the Rev. Gerald B. Switzer, D.D., officiating.

The architect of this series has been asked many times for more three bedroom bungalow designs. The "Chippawa" is an efficient three-bedroom plan and is designed in restrained modern ranch style. By reducing basement area, a saving results in cubical contents sufficient to compensate for No. 3 bedroom. Actual cube is 21,500 feet which is an indication of the economy of this plan.

In the exterior, strong horizontal lines are emphasized. Roof pitch is held to a minimum with gabled ends to allow for ventilation louvers. Bedrooms No. 1 and No. 2 have corner windows which help to increase wall space. The kitchen is the ideal U plan with a good space left for a breakfast-room set. By combining living and dining-room areas, a feeling of roominess is obtained while a departure from traditional architectural style the "Chippawa" is not extreme and will appeal to many prospective home owners who like a house with extended front.

This has been designed for readers of the Times by Harold C. Beckett, M.R.A.I.C.

Unless Court Bars It, Ottawa To Control Rents Till April, 1952

OTTAWA (CP)—The Federal government believes it should be out of the rent-control field completely.

But it won't withdraw before April, 1952, unless the Supreme Court rules that it hasn't the authority to continue the controls.

The government's position was outlined in the Commons Monday night by Finance Minister Abbott and Justice Minister Garson.

The House was discussing an order-in-council which will be placed before the Supreme Court Thursday asking a ruling on whether federal rent controls are valid. The case is expected to come before the court in February. But there is no indication of when the ruling will be made.

In a 2½-hour debate arranged to discuss the matter, the government received suggestions from the Progressive Conservatives and C.C.F. on how it should proceed. Social Credit members did not take part.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested the government postpone recently announced permission to hoist rents 18 and 22 per cent until the whole matter of controls is clarified.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, urged that the allowed increases be withheld until April 1 next to give the provinces a chance to call sessions of legislatures to discuss the question.

TO ORGANIZE

Mr. Coldwell said such increases had been postponed to that date in Saskatchewan to give that province time to organize rent control machinery. John Diefenbaker P.C. Lake Centre, Sask., said the order-in-council should be revised.

Instead of a terse question about whether wartime rent controls still are valid, it should contain evidence that an emergency still exists. The validity of rent controls depends on whether the Supreme Court believes there is an emergency. Mr. Diefenbaker suggested the wording indicated the government was inviting the court to say the legislation was ultra vires—outside the jurisdiction of Parliament.

Mr. Abbott said no one had yet given him "any good reason" why the federal government should continue to control the owners of housing accommodation when it does not control anyone else.

"As honorable members know, more than four years after the end of the war we are out of all the major controls," he said. "We are out of price control, we are out of wage control and we are out of most of the other controls."

"In fact, I think steel control is pretty well the only one left. If anyone could give me a good reason why we should continue to exercise control over one relatively small group in the community—the owners of housing accommodation—I wish they would give it to me because no one has given it to me yet."

WIDE CONSIDERATION

Mr. Garson, replying to the various suggestions about procedure, said he had no doubt they had all been considered before the members of his department selected the course embodied in the order-in-council.

In reply to a question from Mr. Diefenbaker, he said that any ruling on validity of rent regulations could be appealed to the Privy Council. However, the government would not undertake such an appeal if the controls were ruled invalid.

The law making the Supreme

Soles had been talking at the time.

Eye-witness of the accident, Bombardier M. R. Bennett considered the speed of the truck to be moderate. He estimated the vehicle stopped eight to 15 feet after Soles had been struck.

Testimony that Monk was looking down to change gears when the truck swerved and struck the soldiers, was given by Gunner H. A. Deslippe, a passenger in the vehicle. Witness said Monk tried to avoid the pedestrians when he (Deslippe) yelled "look out!"

One of the witnesses said, in reply to a question from Mr. Grant, that he thought the soldiers used the sidewalk since the accident. Estimate was that Soles was between three and four feet from the edge of the road on the traveled portion at the time of the fatal collision.

Quebec Uranium Find

QUEBEC (CP)—L. A. Gaudry, 57-year-old Quebec miner who discovered uranium deposits 30 miles from this capital city, said Monday night he had prospected the upper part of Portneuf County with a geiger counter on a "hunch."

The find was confirmed by A. O. Dufresne, deputy mines minister, who said analyses revealed that Gaudry had found samples of the radioactive mineral.

The value of the deposit is not yet known, but Gaudry believes he has made an "important find."

New Industrial Empire To Arise From Labrador Iron

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A vast, new industrial empire that will probably change the face of the North American steel industry in the next decade will be opened up in the frozen wastes of Ungava and Labrador next year.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland told a press conference here that developments will begin by next autumn on the huge, rich iron ore deposits in the area that will probably replace Minnesota's Mesabi iron range as the biggest iron producer on the continent.

Mr. Smallwood quoted correspondence from Canadian mining leader, Jules R. Timmins, who said a group of American steel companies had taken an option to participate with Canadian interests in the development. Between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 will be pumped into the project in the next three years.

NEW RAILWAY

About 10,000,000 tons of iron ore will roll annually south along a new 360-mile railway from Knob Lake, near the Labrador-

Quebec border, to a new port to be built at Seven Islands, Que. Production later will be stepped up to around 20,000,000 tons a year. The Labrador-Quebec iron range is known to have a capacity of 500,000,000 tons, but the deposits are probably far greater than that.

Mr. Timmins said the Iron Ore Company of Canada had been given the right to lease a large part of the iron ore reserves in the concessions, but that the Canadian companies were retaining ample reserves to supply the requirements of the steel business of Canada as well as to anticipate the export of iron ore to Britain and other European countries in the future.

Some 10,000 men—5,000 from Quebec and 5,000 from Newfoundland—will be employed on the initial construction job. Premier Smallwood said this would virtually eliminate unemployment in Newfoundland.

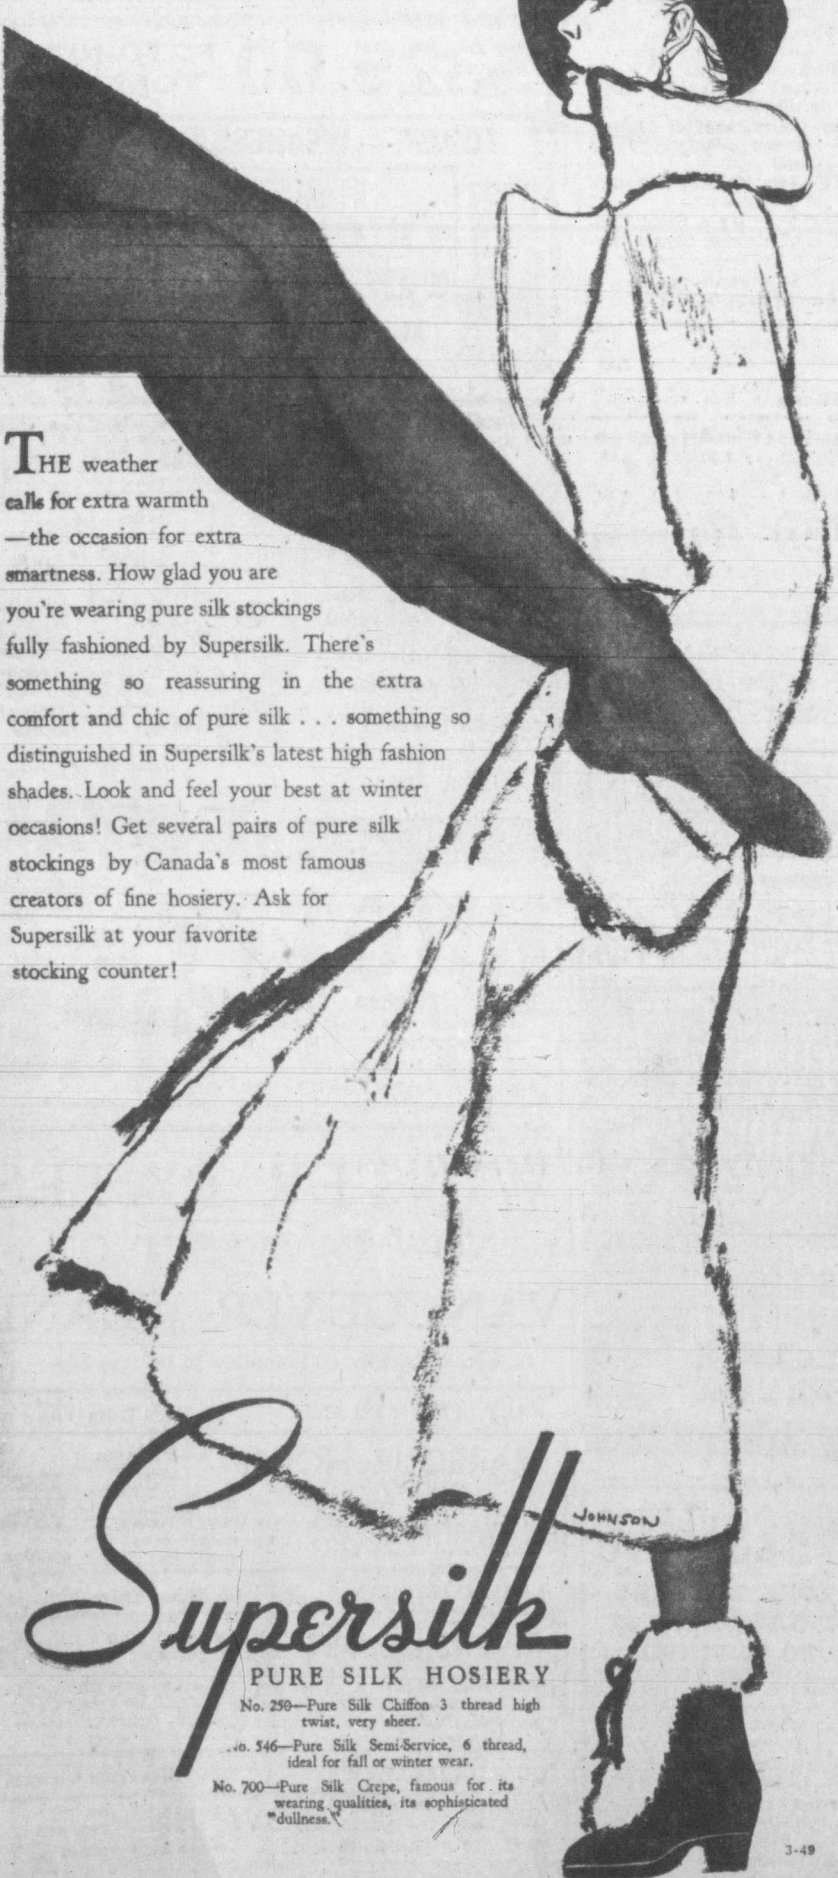

The first known use of stocks in England as an instrument of punishment was in 1380; the last was in 1965.

To Release Cortisone For Research Work Early Next Year

NEW YORK (CP)—Canada's health minister has announced that a small supply of cortisone will be available after Jan. 1 to Canadian researchers. Cortisone is the drug which promises almost-miraculous relief to arthritic sufferers.

Hon. Paul Martin said in a statement that if further experience justifies wide use of the drug it is hoped it may become available for general distribution.

He said startling results have been already obtained from the small quantities of cortisone now available, adding however: "Those whose hopes have been raised by stories about this magic drug must remember that it is still in the experimental stage and that arthritic sufferers will probably require continuous treatment."

Martin said he will announce within a few days arrangements for research distribution in Canada of ACTH (adrenocorticotrophic hormone). ACTH also is employed with dramatic promise in relieving pain and other symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis.

Drowned Skipper Was To Be Best Man

A marine tragedy which took the lives of six Victorians when the tug George McGregor sank off Trial Island Saturday, reached beyond the bereaved relatives of the crew members to mar a Saturday evening wedding.

The wedding was that of Miss Ellen Louise Maloan to F. J. Leeke. The best man was to have been John Mason, captain of the ill-fated tug.

Pictures Local Birds—Bert Harwell of Berkeley, Calif., who presents his film "Canada West" Wednesday night at Robert House in the current series of Audubon Screen Tours, will show pictures of local birds taken during his visit here in 1947.

Mr. Harwell's film is the first in the series to feature Canadian wildlife. Commencing in Victoria with shots of some of B.C.'s common birds the film takes the traveler across the province to the Rockies where it shows close views of beaver, moose, elk, buffalo, mountain sheep and goats.

Besides being a noted photographer and lecturer Mr. Harwell is an outstanding bird imitator; his whistling ability has given pleasure and instruction to thousands all across the United States and Canada.

New Opportunities

NEW YORK (AP)—Multi-millionaire horse-fancier John Hay (Jock) Whitney announced Monday he is setting up a scholarship fund for persons who lack opportunities because of racial or other reasons. Whitney announced the establishment of the John Hay Whitney Foundation of Opportunity Fellowships, with $100,000 to be given out the first year.

B.C. Athletes Named To A.A.U. New Hall Of Fame

MONTREAL (CP)—Seventeen athletes have been named to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's new hall of fame, ex-president George Machum said Monday. Machum and Robert Kerr of Hamilton, Ont., were joint chairmen of a committee which reported at the A.A.U.'s annual meeting in Toronto during the week-end.

All named so far have been Canadian winners at Olympic Games, dating as far back as 1906.

Inclusion of two names will be subject to approval of the athletes' governing sport bodies. They are Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, who won world, Olympic, European, North American and Canadian championships, and Frank Amyot, a paddling-event winner in 1936.

William J. (Bill) Sherring of Hamilton, Ont., who gave Canada its first Olympic championship when he won the Olympic marathon at Athens in 1906, was chosen.

Bob Kerr, also of Hamilton, star sprinter four decades ago, was another choice. He won the 200-metre sprint in the London Olympics of 1908.

The others honored are: Percy Williams, Vancouver, double winner for Canada in 1928 at Amsterdam in the 100-metre and 200-metre sprints.

Ethel Catherwood, formerly of Saskatoon, women's high jump winner in 1928.

McNAUGHTON NAMED
Duncan McNaughton, Vancouver, 1932 men's high jump winner at Los Angeles.

Four members of the women's 1928 relay team: Fannie Rosenfeld, Myrtle Cook, Ethel Smith, Florence Bell.

George R. Hodgson of Montreal, winner in 1912 at Stockholm of the 400-metre and 1,500-metre swimming races.

Bert Schneider, Montreal, a winner in boxing; George Goulding, Toronto, walking champion; H. (Lefty) Gwynn, Toronto, boxing; Earl Thompson, hurdles; E. Desmarreux, weight-lifting.

Among nominations tabled for further consideration were those in behalf of the late Jean Wilson, speed-skating winner at Lake Placid in 1932; Louis Robenstein, European winner, and W. H. Ewing, a trapshooting titleholder of several years ago.

LaChapelle Meets Hessel In Return Wrestling Match
At the request of many fans, wrestling promoter Rocky Brooks has rematched Maurice LaChapelle and Gordon Hessel on Thursday night's card at the York Theatre. Last week Hessel earned an unpopular win, as far as the customers were concerned, over the French Canadian.

In the semi-main event, Lee Grable will go up against the capable Frank Stojack.

A third bout will bring together Cliff Parker and Leo Wallick. The latter will be making his initial appearance here. First bout will start at 8.30.

Duncan Sportsman Kills Big Moose

This huge moose, shot by Joe Garner, was one of the trophies brought home recently from a hunting trip to the Cariboo by a party of Duncan men. Pictured above are: Front, left to right, Joe Garner, Tom Garner, Bill Auchinchie; back, Ted Robson and Don Butt. Others on the trip, which was made in two trucks and Tom Garner's airplane, were Bradshaw Harrison and Gordon McDonald. These men, with Albert McNeil, all of Duncan, form the Rosita Gun Club, which has a 160-acre property on Rosita Lake, 150 miles east of Williams Lake.

Coach Lines Turns Back Navy To Retain Mercantile Ice Lead

A clean-cut 3 to 1 decision over a slightly unorganized Navy club protected the Vancouver Island Coach Lines' lead at the top of the Victoria Commercial Hockey League last night at the Memorial Arena.

The bus drivers are being hard pressed by the strong Douglas Tire sextette, who eked out a 3 to 2 victory over the improved Hotelmen in a second game to remain a single point off the pace. The third game-saw time run out on the winless R.O.P. aggregation, who dropped their sixth straight decision, a close 5 to 4 verdict to Civil Service.

The crowd of 1,879 watched the Navy take an early lead in the opening game when defenceman Frank McKay picked up Del Brown's pass and beat goalie John Dorey cleanly. Seven minutes later, Wally Clarke rushed in to tie it up.

DECIDING TALLY
Connie McBeth, recently picked up from the Victoria Cougars, went in alone at 10:34 in the second period to score what proved to be the deciding tally, and Eddie Varga added the clincher on a set-up by McBeth early in the final session as Dorey blanked the bluejackets for the final two periods.

The Douglas Tire-Hotelmen battle was also a thriller. After a scoreless first period, the Tiremen went one up at the 1:20 mark in the middle canto when Phil Andrejko swept down the ice and relayed to Al Arnold who slipped the rubber in behind Joe Bryant. Making his first start of the season, Pete Holding tied it up on a solo effort at 3:45, and Jimmy Gallant converted Bill Jensen's pass at the 10:23 minute mark to give losers a 2 to 1 edge going into the finale.

Veteran Frank Warshawski scored his first goal of the season to make it 2 to 2 at the 'six-minute of the third period, and Ernie Pearce supplied the winner at 11:16 on a pass from Collins.

The pro-B.O.P. crowd saw their favorites rally after being three goals down in the final period to come within an ace of gaining a tie with the Servants in the final game of the card.

After Daryl Jenkins had opened the scoring for winners on a pass from Murdoch and Mac Mason made it 2 to 0 on an unassisted tally, B.O.P. came back strong to tie the score on goals by Hewitson and Courtнал.

TURN HAT-TRICK
The second period went scoreless and Mason scored three successive tallies at 3:05, 8:13 and 12:38 to make it 5 to 2. Hewitson sliced the margin a minute after Mason's third goal and Gordon Parks tallied the final goal of the game at the 19-minute mark.

A feature of the third period was a scuffle between Servants' Gordon Keats and Scott of the Paper-makers. Both got majors.

Summaries follow:
COACH LINES-NAVY
First Period—1. Navy, McKay (Brown), 10:23. Coach Lines, Clarke, 8:00. Second Period—3. Coach Lines, McBeth, 10:34.

Canadian Football Leaders Against Platoon System

MONTREAL (CP)—To have or not to have in Canadian football the platoon system which is so much in vogue in the United States is a question which finds Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson on the negative side.

Fergie figures it is a system not calculated to develop good football players. Further, it slows up the game.

Boistering Fergie's anti-platoon system feeling is word from T. R. Fred Porter, wartime president of the Big Four now living in Monterey, Calif., who advises: "Never give up the single point or 12 men. The Canadian game is faster, more open and better to watch."

Porter wrote this after viewing a California-Stanford game in which he says, "there was a specialist used for everything in the game. I counted changes in the third period. California and Stanford changed almost complete teams 12 times each before I lost track. Also there were many subs coming in on every second or third play."

PLAYER PARADE
"You can see by this that each team paraded 11 men on, and another 11 off, in the third period at least 12 times. In other words, it means 11 times 12 times, or a total of 242 subs in one period plus an assortment of kickers, ends, passers, blockers, etc."

"Now if there are 250 player changes in one quarter, there are around 1,000 changes per game. Let those who like it keep the 'platoon system.' Keep the Canadian game the way it is."

Fergie notes that Canadian colleges which produce footballers haven't got the quantity of players to use the platoon system and for the reason "are likely to develop better all-around players than is possible under the platoon or specialist system."

Les Douglas Boosts Hockey Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (CP)—Les Douglas, veteran centre of the ram-paging Cleveland Barons, continues to set the pace in the American Hockey League's scoring race.

Douglas picked up five points during the last week to zoom his total to 37, seven more than Johnny Chad and Harvey Fraser of Providence Reds.

Leading scorers follow:
Les Douglas, Cleveland --- 37 15 22 37

Victoria Cougars take the ice at the Memorial Arena tonight against the Fresno Falcons back in fourth place in the northern division of the P.C.H.L. race.

The locals lost their third-place margin last night at Vancouver when the Canucks edged the Tacoma Rockets, 3 to 2.

The Canucks grabbed their one-point edge over the Cougars in a wild game that saw Tacoma need a police escort to get out of the arena after the game was over. Two Rocket players, Norm Gustavsen and Ronnie Rowe, were thrown out on match misconduct penalties in the second and third periods.

PUCK BREAKS IN HALF
Gustavsen was bounced in an argument with Referee Dick Davis, who allowed a Vancouver goal in which the puck split in two. Davis said the puck split on a back post of the goal.

Three defencemen will carry the load for Victoria Cougars tonight 'cause Eddie Marinneau is moving up to the firing line.

In an effort to inject a little more punch in the attack, coach Eddie Wares announced today that Marinneau will play left wing on a line centred by Russ Kopak with Joe Evans on the right flank. Bernie Strongman will pivot the Georges Bougie-Larry Thibault combination. The unit of Eddie Dorohoy, Eddie Mazur and Roy McKay will remain intact.

Gustavsen and Coach Muzz Patrick contended the puck was broken by the stick of Vancouver's Al Kuntz, who rifled in the shot.

Rowe was bounced in the third when Davis disallowed a goal he claimed was scored during a pile-up in front of the Vancouver net.

SOUTHERN CHAMPIONS
The Fresno club, which last year won the southern division league championship, is currently in fourth place in this year's race.

Of the club's five victories, three have been over the first-

Soccer May Switch To Brockton Point

VANCOUVER (CP)—Callister Park—perennial home of Coast League soccer in Vancouver—may soon be replaced by Brockton Point.

League officials today expressed dissatisfaction with accommodation facilities at Callister, said they were looking for something better, where they could "increase the gates."

Parks board officials, in reply, said they were interested in the idea.

U.S. Football Bowl Schedule Complete; Irish, Army Missing

NEW YORK (AP)—The four richest bowls were check of football teams today but none promised a game resembling a national championship.

Two of the four leading touchdown machines in the United States, California and Oklahoma are represented in the post-season line-up but on different fronts. The other two, top-ranked Notre Dame and Army, are not interested.

The leaves the big part of the bowl wrangling up to a group of eleven with lack-lustre records—clubs that got their share of knocks in a turbulent season that left only five major teams unbeaten and untied.

California and Oklahoma were among those finished with unsplashed records. The others were Notre Dame, Army and College of the Pacific.

The remaining six teams in the major bowls carry an embarrassing total of 11 defeats and three ties among them, hardly up to the usual bowl standard.

The line-up for the Jan. 2 games (won-and-lost record in brackets):

Rose Bowl—California (10-0) vs. Ohio State (7-1-2).
Sugar Bowl—Oklahoma (10-0) vs. Louisiana State (8-2).
Cotton Bowl—Rice (9-1) vs. North Carolina (7-3).

Orange Bowl—Santa Clara (7-2-1) vs. Kentucky (9-2).

Clover Leafs Reach Agreement With Loop

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the Inter-city Basketball League and the Vancouver Maple Leafs reached mutual agreement late yesterday, thus averting a threatened league suspension of Leafs for playing University of Washington Friday.

League officials will in future work with the Leafs' management on the question of their playing schedule.

Trouble began when the league refused to grant Leafs permission to play Washington. Leafs wanted to turn over any profits to their minor league system. The league wanted any profits to go to its own treasury.

JOINS HOLLYWOOD

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Danny Menendez, general manager of Kansas City Blues of the American Baseball Association, announced his resignation today. He said he would accept a similar post with the Hollywood club of the Coast League.

Basis Of Basketball Playoffs Announced

Playoff data for teams of the Victoria and District Basketball Association has been released by secretary Tommy Carson.

The two senior A men's teams, Y.M.C.A. and Arrows, will meet in a best-of-five series for the city title and the right to meet Port Alberni in the Island final.

The top five clubs at the close of the regular schedule will contest the Senior B Men's League crown. The first-place finisher will receive a first-round bye. Second-place team will meet fourth-place club in a two-game total-point series as will the third and fifth-place clubs.

A draw will then be held to determine the club receiving a bye. The other two clubs will need in a total-point series in the semifinal round, the winner to meet the team drawing the second-round bye.

In the Intermediate A Men's League four teams will qualify. First and third, and second and fourth-place clubs will meet in the semis, the winners to meet in a best-of-three final. Semifinals will be total-point series.

Second and third-place clubs will play a total-point series for the right to meet the first-place club in a best-of-three intermediate B boys' finals.

The same schedule holds true for the junior boys' series. Mid-grade boys will play a two-game total-point series.

The senior A women's representative is C. and C. Taxi. Senior B Women's League will be decided by a best-of-three series between the two clubs. Intermediate A division team is Victoria High School; intermediate B, Arrow Furniture, and junior girls, Bomberettes.

Gruhn, a top-notch under the Vancouver flag for two years, hadn't measured up to expectations here, Ward said. Ward said the sale was part of the axing he promised last week before Portland lost to Tacoma.

The coach said he wouldn't name the replacement until later.

HERMIE GRUHN JOINS NEW WESTMINSTER
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Coach Jim Ward reported last night the Portland club of the Pacific Coast Ice Hockey League had lost wingman Hermie Gruhn to the New Westminster Royals.

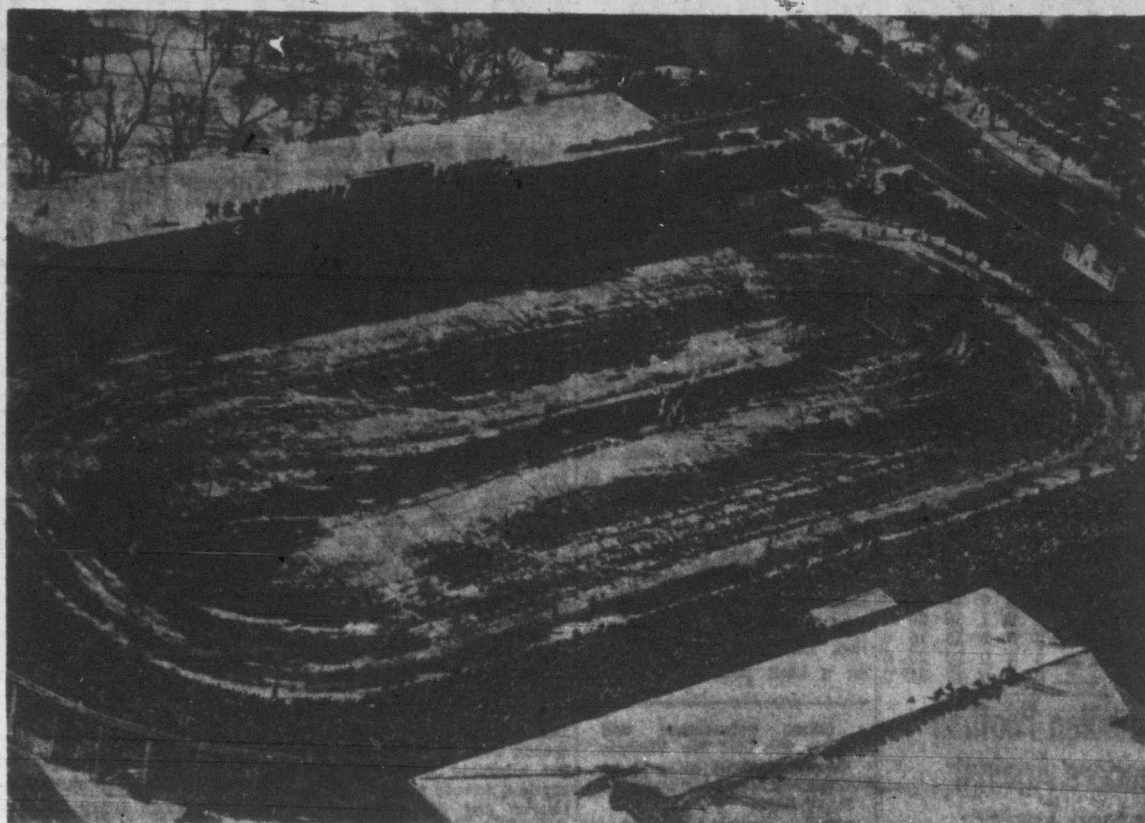

Gruhn, a top-notch under the Vancouver flag for two years, hadn't measured up to expectations here, Ward said. Ward said the sale was part of the axing he promised last week before Portland lost to Tacoma.

The coach said he wouldn't name the replacement until later.

First Of 2,308,000 Jap Oranges In City

First of a shipment of 2,308,000 Japanese oranges for Greater Victoria and Vancouver Island's west coast arrived here today. They are a part of a $1,000,000 shipment of the delicious little fruit which has been purchased for sale across the Dominion this Christmas season.

Today's shipment was part of a cargo which was discharged in Vancouver and was made up of 1,800 boxes containing an average of five dozen Jap oranges each. Some are being kept for local sale, but the majority are going to the west coast of the island.

Victoria's big share in the shipment will arrive Thursday or Friday aboard a freighter coming from Japan with 20,000 cases for this city. The ship will be one of four carrying the huge fruit purchase.

The Jap oranges arriving today will be selling at approximately $1.35 a box. The second shipment is expected to bring the price down to between $1.25 and $1.29 a box, after which, later and smaller shipments are expected to go back up to the present price as the supply dwindles.

Last ship carrying Jap oranges is due in Vancouver Dec. 10.

Negotiations Sought With Hospital Board By Jubilee Union

The Victoria Hospital Employees' Federal Union 371 (T.L.C.) although lacking bargaining authority, has submitted a proposed collective bargaining agreement to the Royal Jubilee Hospital board of directors.

Officials of the union admitted that there was nothing to require the board to negotiate the proposed agreement with the union.

In the meantime, it was reported that the rival Jubilee Hospital Employees' Association, which also lacks bargaining authority, was continuing through its counsel, R. D. Harvey, K.C., to negotiate with the Labor Relations Board for recognition of the association as bargaining authority for the lay staff of the hospital.

An official of the association said that the association was gaining more members all the time.

The battle over certification has been going on for almost six months. Not long ago the Labor Relations Board ordered a vote of the employees to determine as a preliminary to certification but this was boycotted by the association.

The union now is seeking wage increases up to $30 per month, provisions for annual holidays with pay, statutory holidays, hours of work, grievance procedure and others.

No Gordon Head Airport, Flier Told

A Wisconsin airman had his aircraft course changed by the city today.

Kootenay Sammons, of West Allis, Wis., wrote City Council for information regarding the Gordon Head Air Park—length of runways, radio communication and the like.

He planned on flying from Wisconsin to Seattle by way of B.C. and he hoped a landing field at Gordon Head would accommodate his Beechcraft Bonanza aircraft.

A letter was mailed immediately telling Mr. Sammons there was no Gordon Head Air Park—that plans to build it were at a standstill.

He was advised to try Patricia Bay airport.

C. G. Lucas Newest Saanich Candidate

Victoria-born Charles Gilbert Lucas, 485 Marigold Avenue, today announced he will seek election to the Saanich Council at the Dec. 10 elections. He is the 14th candidate for council, which this year has seven vacancies.

The 34-year-old candidate has been with Shepherd's Dairy for 19 years and is now assistant manager. He has been a resident of Saanich since his marriage 10 years ago. Mr. Lucas has been secretary of the Saanich Liberal Association for two years. "I am keenly interested in Saanich affairs," he said.

Trial of James W. Dunkeld, 1137 Finlayson Street, for careless driving, was postponed to Dec. 6 in city police court today. Adjournment was made as a police witness, Constable William Andrews, was not available owing to injury sustained Monday night in an accident in which another car was in collision with the police vehicle he was driving.

Jury Holds Driver Of Navy Jeep Responsible For Sailor's Death

A coroner's jury deliberated for 50 minutes this morning before returning a verdict of culpable neglect in the death of A.B. Clarence A. Clarke, 19-year-old crew member of H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, who was found dead early Friday morning in the middle of Douglas Street, near Broughton.

The six-man jury held A.B. Donald Peddon, driver of an H.M.C.S. Crescent jeep, responsible for the fatality.

According to evidence presented at the inquest, Clarke collapsed while crossing Douglas Street and was struck by the jeep which was proceeding northward on the street at a speed between 25 and 30 miles per hour.

Peddon, who testified without protection of the Canada Evidence Act, admitted seeing something on the road as he approached the accident scene but apparently could not make out what it was.

"I noticed two dark objects on the street and I attempted to steer between them," he told the jury. The two dark objects, he subsequently found, were Clarke and his burberry.

P.O. George Green and A.B. Arthur Duggan, who were passengers in the jeep, said they saw nothing until after the accident. Duggan said he felt a small jar but Green said he felt nothing.

Green testified Peddon said he thought he had hit something. The jeep was stopped and both men walked back to investigate. They found Clarke lying face downward and in an unconscious state.

Some indication as to how deceased came to be in the road in the first place was given by Robert A. Shirley, another naval rating.

Shirley told of walking north on Douglas with a girl friend, following a dance at the Crystal Garden. He said he noticed Clarke on the curb.

SEEN TO STAGGER

"He said hello. I said hello to him. He threw his coat over his head and staggered backwards. He was waving his arms."

Fred Ramsdale Runs For Police Board

A veteran Victoria service station operator announced today he will oppose Commissioner James Neely, hotel manager, in the election of a city police commissioner for a two-year term at the Dec. 8 elections.

He is Fred (Red) Ramsdale, 2124 Hall Road, who has operated Red's Service Station, Yates and Quadra Streets, since 1921.

In announcing he would seek election, Mr. Ramsdale said he was opposed strongly to the opening of beer parlors in the city. He would fight the move by the Hotelmen's Association for sale of beer by the glass.

Born in England, Mr. Ramsdale came to Victoria with his parents at an early age. He served with the 29th Battalion in World War One and before going into business worked for the city as a mechanic.

Mr. Ramsdale said he was interested in sports—"I've had my hand in various athletic activities." But he was not a "joiner"—he did not belong to any organizations.

He is married and has two sons, one of them a member of the Royal Canadian Navy.

I never bothered. I just left him."

Belief that Clarke collapsed in the middle of the road was supported by testimony of Len Acres, Victoria orchestra leader, who was driving north on Douglas in front of the navy jeep.

Acres said he saw something lying in the middle of the road, so swerved his car to give it a wide clearance. After he passed, he stopped his car to see what it was. A second car and then the naval jeep pulled up behind him.

Constable Brian Ferguson, who with other police officers attended at the scene of the accident, told of examining the jeep and finding it to be in good mechanical condition. He said the windshield wiper, however, was broken on the vehicle and was found between the two front seats.

It was raining heavily at the time of the accident, the constable testified, and the scene was poorly illuminated. Visibility, he said, was practically nil.

Peddon admitted the windshield wiper was broken. He said he had been to two mechanics to put it on but that it would not stay fixed.

Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said a post mortem examination of deceased revealed death resulted from internal bleeding.

Urge Public To Watch Out For Suspicious Loiterers

To aid police in apprehending the burglars who have ransacked several homes since last Friday, the police are urging citizens to telephone in and report any suspicious loiterers in their neighborhoods.

Detective-Inspector Harry Mercer gives assurance that every case reported will be investigated. It is apparent that the houses entered had been carefully surveyed before entry was attempted.

Assistance Studied For Flood Victims

Labor Minister John Cates said this afternoon that the plight of North Vancouver residents whose homes were damaged by the flooding of Seymour Creek during the week-end storm might be the topic of future discussion with the provincial cabinet.

Capt. Cates, following a tour of the damage area in his constituency, reported that there were some cases which deserved assistance to repair flood damage. Whether this assistance should come from the provincial government or the municipality he did not know.

Before making any representation to the cabinet, Capt. Cates indicated that a survey of the damage cost would have to be prepared.

Only Two Saanich Election Meetings

There will be only two meetings next week to which the public will be invited to hear candidates seeking reelection, council, school board and police commission seats in the Dec. 10 elections.

Council has decided to rent the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall for the two nights. Dates had not been set up to today. First meeting will be for reelection, school trustee and police commission candidates. The second and final meeting will be the 14 men seeking seven councillor seats.

The rear right fender of a car owned by Joseph Crossfield, 432 Menzies Street, was struck by an unidentified vehicle Monday night, the owner reported to city police. Car was parked on Yates Street, between Quadra and Blanshard Streets, when struck.

Motorist Found Guilty Of Hit-Run In Injury Accident

Magistrate H. C. Hall, in city police court today, found Charles Bland, Balmoral Apartments, guilty of a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident Nov. 7 on Johnson Street Extension with intent to escape liability. Bland was remanded to tomorrow for sentence.

Claude L. Harrison called 13 prosecution witnesses in the case to prove Bland and his car were involved in the accident. A car driven by Lawrence Boutilier, 1155 Wychbury Avenue, was badly wrecked and he and his wife, Mary, were injured when struck by a car that did not stop.

Magistrate Hall said he was satisfied the Bland car was the vehicle that did not stop, but that the real question was the identity of the driver.

Bland had told the court he did not use his car from the early afternoon on Nov. 7 until the following day. He said he had given no permission to anyone to drive it. Police found the car in James Bay with a crumpled fender. Bland said he had parked it there. The magistrate thought it would be an extraordinary situation if the car had been stolen and then returned to the place it was taken from.

The stealing of the car, he thought, was very doubtful. The magistrate also noted that Bland's story and his wife's as to their actions together on the evening and night in question were vitally different.

"I have come to the conclusion there is sufficient evidence that you were in charge of the car," said Magistrate Hall.

Dog Bites Man Case In Court

Bernard Nixon, 1237 Hillside Avenue, pleaded not guilty in city police court today to a charge of being in possession of a dog which allegedly bit Edwin Crabb, 2133 Ridge Road, on Nov. 19.

Case was remanded to give Nixon an opportunity to bring his wife and son as witnesses in his defence.

Crabb told the court he was riding an automobile when a police dog accompanied by a boy ran from the sidewalk and bit him on the leg. He displayed to the court where the bite was. Crabb said there were four teeth marks which had penetrated the skin and required medical attention.

Crabb said Nixon told him he was not going to do anything about paying the doctor's bill.

Nearly 500 More City Voters Listed

There are 476 more names on this year's city voters' list than in 1948, it was shown today when the official list was posted at the City Hall.

Total this year is 18,290. Last year it was 17,814.

The breakdown of last year's list was 15,073 property owners, 2,330 householders and 411 licensees. The list this year was similar. Included in the 17,814 voters last year were 631 property owners who were not residing here.

Accident Damage $200

City police report that a car driven by James E. Pomplio, 167 Bushby Street, was in collision Monday night with a parked car near the intersection of Foul Bay and Romney Roads. About $150 damage was done to the Pomplio car, and about $50 to the parked car, owned by Richard Harrod, 94 Maddock Street.

Steal Clock, Radio

The Victoria garbage department office also was a casualty in the series of week-end burglaries of homes and business premises, city police reported. Thieves who broke into the office, stole an alarm clock and a mantle radio, W. J. Hooper told police.

A fine of $35 was imposed against Miss Marjorie Leno, 2665 Forbes Street, in city police court today. She was found guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall on a charge of careless driving arising from an accident on Yates Street Nov. 8. Her car was in collision with another being backed out from the curb.

Says East Indian Ignorant Of Growing Poppies For Opium

Evidence was completed in Assize Court this afternoon in the case of Kishen Singh, 336 Head Street, East Indian, charged with possession of morphine and cultivation of opium poppies.

At a previous trial in the current Assizes, a jury failed to reach a unanimous decision and a retrial was ordered.

In his argument this morning summing up his case, defence counsel George Gregory asked acquittal on the grounds there had been only circumstantial evidence presented by the prosecution to show the accused had knowledge that opium poppies grew in his garden. Both counsels agreed this was the issue in the case.

NOT HARVESTED

Mr. Gregory said the evidence of R.C.M.P. officers had been that the best time to harvest opium poppies to obtain morphine was immediately after the petals had fallen from the stalk.

"The fact this was not done shows the accused had no intention of obtaining morphine—and, in fact, did not even know he was growing opium poppies. Just because he was convicted on a similar charge in 1940 does not mean he is now able to recognize which of the 50 species of poppies are opium poppies," Mr. Gregory said.

In answer to this, H. W. Davey, K.C., crown counsel, said the poppies were not harvested when petals fell, since some flowers were still blooming—and that to have picked only a few flowers and leave bare stalks among the poppies would have drawn attention to them—a thing he said the accused wanted to avoid.

READS FROM BIBLE

Mr. Gregory used the court Bible for reference at one point, reading a parable from the book of St. Matthew relating to seeds sown by one's enemies. This, or a similar explanation, could have been the case with Kishen Singh, the lawyer told the jury in giving what he termed was a reasonable explanation to how the opium poppies got into the Head Street garden.

He pointed out a reasonable explanation was all the defence had to give in a case involving only circumstantial evidence.

Mr. Davey suggested to the jury the many arguments of the defence counsel indicated he was hard-pressed, and that evidence given by the accused had been evasive with knowledge of guilt.

He said he thought Oriental poppies bought from an eastern firm had not been planted in Kishen's garden at all, but the purchase had been made merely to provide the accused with an excuse should he be caught with the opium poppies in his garden.

Mr. Gregory earlier had admitted the opium poppies did not come from seeds purchased from the eastern firm.

Chamber Head Tells Sooke To Keep Urging Better Roads

SOOKE—Advice to keep on urging for better roads was given by Walter Miles, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, to Sooke-Jordan River Chamber, on the occasion of its first annual banquet in Sooke Harbor House.

Mr. Miles told the 65 people present that there were 85,000 Chamber of Commerce members in Canada "to which the government will listen."

In noting Sooke Harbor was only 16 water miles from the United States side of the Strait of Juan de Fuca, he said there was no substitute for water power and Sooke locality had a future insofar as the connecting water passage was concerned. "A chairman is only as strong as his directors," Mr. Miles told his audience. "A Chamber of Commerce is the life-blood of any community."

Accompanying Mr. Miles was

Genocide Convention Signed By Canada

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—Canada Monday signed the convention on genocide—the international agreement denouncing destruction of groups of human beings.

L. B. Pearson, External Affairs minister, put his name down for Canada as the 31st signatory of the convention, which has grown out of three years work in the United Nations. The informal signing took place in the office of Ivan Kerno, the U.N.'s assistant secretary-general in charge of legal affairs.

Four countries—Australia, Ethiopia, Iceland and Norway—have ratified the convention. Ratification by 20 countries is necessary before the agreement will come into force.

Pearson said Parliament probably will take up the question of Canadian ratification at the next session.

The convention, approved last December by the General Assembly, defines genocide as commission of certain acts to destroy wholly or in part a national, ethnic, racial or religious group as such.

INDIA GETS ENGINES
NEW DELHI (CP)—Ayyangar, Indian transport and railways minister, disclosed that deliveries of Canadian and United States-built locomotives would be built by the spring of 1951. A number of engines and machinery had already arrived, financed by a World Bank loan of $34,000,000.

James Neely, Victoria City police commissioner.

A. F. Brownsey, retiring president, spoke of the interest taken in the West Coast Road project and other road matters. He reminded the gathering that the West Coast Ambulance, which was sponsored by the Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce, had provided a balance of $263 with more to come in.

Mr. Brownsey headed the West Coast Improvement Association for two years before that group was dissolved in favor of forming the Chamber of Commerce.

Walter Conder was elected president for 1950 and Jack M. Elliott of Jordan River, vice-president. Harold H. Brown extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Brownsey. Mrs. Walter Conder, read the secretary-treasurer's report, showing the chamber to be in good financial condition.

Since the organization is comprised of members from districts between and including Sooke and Jordan River, 19 miles distant, directors were nominated as follows: J. T. Hunter and G. S. Oliver for Jordan River; Edward Banner for Shirley; Dal Elder for Muir Creek; Warren Kennedy for Otter Point; Fred Thornber and James Arden for Sooke.

Vocal solos were rendered by Jules Lavertue, accompanied by Mrs. Lavertue. Mrs. Florence Acreman gave a piano selection.

Siamese Twins Gaining Weight

TOFIELD, Alta. (CP)—Brenda and Beverley Townsend, Siamese twins born here 12 days ago, may be taken to Edmonton for examination by specialists, E. A.

Townsend, the father, said here. The children are united at the abdomen and have been kept in an incubator since birth to build them up.

Mr. Townsend said the 35-mile trip to Edmonton is planned as soon as the children are able to stand it. Dr. W. H. Freebury, the attending physician, said there is "nothing definite at the moment" on the projected trip. The girls weighed 9 pounds 12 ounces at birth and Mr. Townsend said they are gaining weight every day.

The 19-year-old mother has returned home from the Municipal Hospital, where the children were born. "She's coming along fine," Townsend said.

Last Rites Today For Mrs. Macdonald

Funeral services were held at 4 this afternoon from Hayward's Funeral Chapel for Mrs. Mary Richardson Macdonald, widow of Chief Justice James

A. Macdonald, who died early Saturday at her home, 933 St. Charles Street.

Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunn officiated. Interment was in the family plot at Royal Oak. Pallbearers were: Air Vice-Marshal Raymond Colishaw, A. W. Carter, P. E. Beasley, Gov-don M. Campbell, Carew Martin, K.C., and A. M. Watson. Mrs. Macdonald, who was 85, came to Victoria with her husband in 1909 when he was appointed Chief Justice of the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Stamp Coach Advises Disbanding Of C.R.U.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Coach Les Lear of Calgary Stampers today advocated a complete break by all leagues from the Canadian Rugby Union, and added that such a break "is in the wind."

Pasting through Winnipeg with the Stampers on their way home from the Grey Cup final in Toronto, Lear said "football is going ahead while the C.R.U. stands still."

"The union and its constitution are about the same as when the union was first formed. If we're going to get anywhere, we've got to have a new set-up."

Lear said football is "big business" now, and should be carried on in a "big-time" manner.

"As it stands, there are a number of dead-weight unions which have been out of action for some time but still have representatives who carry votes at the C.R.U. meetings," said Lear, only Canadian to make good as a player in United States professional leagues.

"This just wouldn't be a good thing for the west, but for the whole of Canada. And some of the leagues in the east already are planning a break."

Due to his short stay and the swarming crowd of more than 1,500 persons who jammed the station to welcome Stampers despite their 28 to 15 defeat to Montreal Alouettes in the Grey Cup final, Lear wasn't able to give any details of what new set-up is planned.

I.R.F.U. STAND

TORONTO (CP)—The Inter-provincial Rugby Football Union "certainly has no intention of breaking" from the Canadian Rugby Union, Dr. J. J. O'Connor of Toronto, Big Four president, said here today.

Commenting on a statement at Winnipeg by coach Les Lear of Calgary Stampers that such a break "is in the wind," Dr. O'Connor said that "there is absolutely no truth to Lear's remark as far as the Big Four is concerned."

"The Canadian Rugby Union is representative of every senior league and speaking for my league, such a thing as Lear suggests hasn't entered the minds of any of our officials."

LEAR 'OUT OF LINE'

MONTREAL (CP)—Meyer Insky, first vice-president of the Canadian Rugby Union and president of the Quebec Rugby Football Union, said today Les Lear is "way out of line" in asking a complete break by all leagues from the C.R.U.

Insky was commenting on a report from Winnipeg quoting Lear, coach of Calgary Stampers who lost the Dominion football championship last week in Toronto to Montreal Alouettes, as urging such a break and saying that "some of the leagues in the east already are planning a break."

Queen Charlotte Islands Nudged By Earthquake

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (BUP)—Earthquake shocks lasting as long as 20 minutes shook parts of the Queen Charlotte Islands today.

No damage was reported, but houses trembled in the half-dozen shocks which were felt.

The Queen Charlotte Islands have felt numerous earthquake tremors since the big quake last August, but today's shocks were the first in about one month.

Earlier reports today said earth shocks were felt at Seattle and Bremerton at 5 a.m., waking sleepers by rattling crockery.

The quake was recorded on seismographs at Seattle and at Gonzales.

Says Man Planned Death By Drinking

WINNIPEG (CP)—Defence counsel Harry Walsh contended today in Manitoba Court of Appeal that there is no law against a man drinking himself to death.

The contention came during appeal of a man who had been shown to have purchased more than $500 worth of liquor in 4½ months.

Walsh contended that George Kozub, convicted and fined on a charge of keeping liquor for sale, did not have to prove that he was not keeping liquor for sale merely because he had it in his possession.

"There is no law against a man drinking himself to death, is there?" queried Mr. Walsh. Decision on the appeal was reserved.

Judgment Reserved In Murder Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Appeal Court today reserved judgment in the appeal of William John Worobec, convicted of murder and scheduled to be hanged Jan. 6.

Worobec, a 37-year-old tailor, was convicted jointly with Walter (Turk) Broda, veteran goaltender of Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, was suspended today until he cuts his weight from 197 to 190 pounds.

Managing Director Conn Smythe said that other suspensions may follow unless the Leafs start "playing like champions." Three other players—Defenceman Garth Boesch and left wingers Harry Watson and Sid Smith—were ordered to cut weight or be suspended.

"We are not running a fat man's team," said Smythe, who announced that Gil Mayer, who was called up from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League to play against Detroit Red Wings here Thursday night.

Smythe expects that Broda will make the weight limit and get back into action here Saturday night against New York Rangers "if he's got any sense."

C.N.R. Income Down

SEATTLE (AP)—The Great Northern Railway today reported a drop in gross operating revenues of $6,423,867 below those of 1948 during the month of October. A total of $18,736,717 was reported during the month this year.

The line's net income for the month was placed at $2,596,084, down $2,155,375 from the previous October.

The company's net income for the first 10 months of this year was reported at $15,237,570, against $21,142,401 in 1948.

Weather Forecast

Cloudy with scattered showers today; southerly winds 15 m.p.h., decreasing to light tonight. Wednesday: Cloudy with intermittent rain in afternoon and evening; continuing mild. Southeast winds 25 during afternoon and evening. Low tonight, 42; high Wednesday, 50.

Rescue Worker Collapses

Charles Ellison is carried to ambulance after he nearly suffocated while attempting to reach two fellow workers trapped when a sewer excavation wall collapsed on them in Springfield, Pa. Both men died under the tons of dirt.

Ottawa Figures Go To Show 'Horse Players Die Broke'

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government produced cold statistics today to prove that betting on horse races doesn't pay anyone except governments and racing associations.

It didn't mention bookies, however. They're illegal.

The Agriculture Department, which keeps tabs on the profit-and-loss accounts of pari-mutuel betting, said Canadian race track bettors legally backed their favorites to the tune of $39,550,478 this year.

They got $48,544,664.45 back in the 2,750 races that 29 associations staged during the 1949 racing season.

Toronto was listed as the city with the record for the largest amount wagered during the year. A total of $2,629,382 was bet at one session of the spring meeting at Woodbine Park.

Red Deer, Alberta, didn't do so well. It was classed as the city with the smallest total, some $806 at a two-day meeting.

The department said the difference between the total bet and the amount returned to bettors as winnings was split almost equally between the provincial governments and the racing associations, which used part of the money to pay their purses.

Two-thirds of Canadian racing activity was centred during the year in Ontario, where bettors, led by Toronto fanners or people who went to Toronto to see horse races, wagered $38,578,310 during the season.

British Columbia ranked second, Manitoba was listed third, followed by Alberta, Quebec and Saskatchewan. The Maritime provinces didn't place or show on the pari-mutuel list.

U.S. Government Reports On Prewar Communist Network

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government unveiled today two secret reports telling of a pre-war Washington Communist network "far more important and cunning" than a spy ring because it influenced government policy.

The reports, written by State Security Officer Raymond Murphy after interviews with ex-Communist Whittaker Chambers, were read to the jury in the second perjury trial of Alger Hiss.

Hiss, formerly a high State Department official, was named in the reports as a leading member of the Communist outfit, described as "the elite policy-making top-level group" with members in strategic posts.

The reports said Hiss and others named formed an organization at the direction of the Communist Party in 1934 with a program of "committing the government to a policy in keeping with the desires of the Communists."

Hiss said result of a ballot on the question will be disclosed at the annual convention here Friday by President E. G. Burrows. The association had adopted a resolution in 1947 to affiliate with the T.L.C. Civil servant groups in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are affiliated with the congress.

Lauren said result of a ballot on the question will be disclosed at the annual convention here Friday by President E. G. Burrows. The association had adopted a resolution in 1947 to affiliate with the T.L.C. Civil servant groups in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are affiliated with the congress.

Plans To Attack Soviet

FLUSHING, N.J. (BUP)—Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the United Nations today that the United States has "girded the globe with some 500 military bases," in preparation for war against the Soviet Union.

Arguing before the General Assembly in support of his resolution which charges the United States and Britain with preparing World War Number Three and then asks the two western powers to join the rest of the big five in a peace pact, Vishinsky said:

"The leading quarters of the United States have thwarted co-operation, availing themselves of every opportunity and pretext. Co-operation has been prevented and stymied by these quarters, who plan to become the dominators of the world."

"They dream of converting other states into colonies of the United States. They dream of reducing the Soviet Nations to the level of slaves or members of puppet countries of the United States."

"But they ran into an irreducible obstacle: the great movement of peoples for peace, which is the true guard of the security of nations, the enemy of war and the friend and champion of peace."

Vishinsky said American and British spokesmen made no effort to dispute his arguments but "only give out a kind of whine, and sometimes nothing at all." He said British Minister of State Hector McNeill, while declaring to the U.N. that Britain had steadily reduced its armed forces and military budget, "bashfully passes in silence the fact that the United States has already converted the United Kingdom into a military air base."

Washington (AP)—The United States Government today ordered Bristol-Myers Company, New York, to stop using certain advertising claims for Ipana tooth paste including those about its value in combating "pink tooth brush."

An order issued by the Federal Trade Commission said the action resulted from "misrepresentation of the therapeutic value of Ipana tooth paste and of the extent to which it is used or recommended by dentists."
